DEMPSEY ASSASSIN FAILS

Today

The Canal Is Needed.
20,000 Cars a Day.
Japan Balks at Words.
Beaverbrook Drops In.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WISELY Congress revokes its own decision and provides money for necessary work in Nicaragua by United States Marines.

This country, by treaty with Nicaragua, has acquired the right to build a Pacific to Atlantic canal, via the Nicarauga route.

CERTAIN gentlemen of Nicaragua, with big hats but small brains, do not want the canal built. This country and the whole world's shipping need the canal.

Congressmen fussing about Mr. Sandino, Nicaragua revolutionist, and sympathizing with his fondness for shooting American Marines, represent their constituents poorly.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THREE THOUSAND automobiles were built in this country last week, twice as many as were built in the same week last year, when Ford was not producing.

An average of 20,000 automobile units per day, trucks and tractors included, is a marvelous record. "Where do they go?" is asked.

They go to replace old cars and supply new ones to the growing army of prosperity and to the increasing number of "two and three-car families." If every automobile running lasted five years, replacements alone would call for 5,000,000 new cars a year.

THE Japanese educated classes no longer believe that their Mikado is cousin to the sun and moon. But they are touchy about his importance and object to signing the Kellogg peace pact, which uses the words "in the name of the people."

These words Japanese will not sign, because they make it appear that the Japanese people, not the Mikado, rule Japan.

JAPAN need not worry about mere words. The people do not rule this country either to any alarming extent. Real ruling is done by well-organized finance that says what it wants and gets it.

But some one, or something must rule. The high powers here give the American 120,000,000 plenty of automobiles, radios, telephones, moving pictures and fairly good wages.

AND the people are content, being told once every year, July 4th, that they are the rulers.

Perhaps benevolent, intelligent plutocracy that supplies automobiles and radios is better, on the whole, than agitated, experimenting democracy that would supply worry. It takes a nation more than one century to learn how to rule itself. In fact, no nation has ever learned thus far in history.

LORD BEAVERBROOK, owner of the London Express and a great deal of money, is in America, cheerful about things in general. Cold weather has helped Britain's coal situation. British shipping and shipbuilding have improved.

BEAVERBROOK, born in Canada and possessing brains, complains that bankers possess too much of the ruling power in England. "They favor the general financial situation, without regard to the industrial situation," says he.

Here the same men rule banks and industries, making one hand wash the other nicely. Beaverbrook comes to see how it is done.

FOUR men that murdered seven members of the Moran gang, in Chicago, do not intend to be caught, if gang methods can prevent it.

Dr. L. W. Tacker revealed some information about the murderers. He was kidnaped, taken for a ride and told he would be dumped out dead.

THE kidnapers changed their minds and sent him home to tell others, "Squealing, in this case, will not be good for your health."

As a health resort for squealers, Chicago is a complete failure. To know the guilty and keep your mouth shut, or tell and be murdered is a difficult choice. Mussolini convinced the Mafia that there is, in government, a power above crime. But there is only one Mussolini.

Gangsters ask you to notice that, as a rule, they only kill each other, and usually kill someone that is no loss to the community.

ACCORDING to Dr. George Krause, German engineer, one and a half grams of silver, a quantity that you could hold between finger and thumb, will, properly prepared, purify ten billion gallons of impure water.

THE possibility of influencing so much water with so little silver is not puzzling to those that realize, even vaguely, the number of atoms in one and a half grams.

Ancient physicians that prescribe gold and other precious metals powdered as medicine may have had a good idea, minus the knowledge to make it effective.

OUR Filipino friends cheer Henry L. Stimson, American governor general, on his departure. A change, unquestionably sincere, has come over the Filipinos and their desire to be free and govern themselves.

These few words made the change: "Of course, if you become independent of America, sugar sent by you to the United States will be taxed." That would mean some millions a year to the Philippines, and the separatists have seen a great, golden light. Freedom is magnificent, but not if it costs too much money.

THE House of Representatives, taking the advice of President Coolidge, declined to increase by $24,000,000 the amount to be spent enforcing prohibition this year.

Congress gives enforcement officers what ought to be a powerful weapon, heavy fines and long periods in jail for bootlegging.

But, there is nothing like real money and the $24,000,000 will be missed.

VARE DECISION LEFT TO NEXT CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(INS.)—A resolution proposing that William S. Vare (Rep.) Pennsylvania, be denied his seat in the Senate, was introduced in the Senate this afternoon by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader.

This action followed an explanation of the Vare case by Senator James A. Reed (Dem.), of Missouri, chairman of the "slush fund" committee which held that the Pennsylvanian was not entitled to a seat.

Robinson said he sponsored the resolution in behalf of Senator George W. Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, Insurgent leader.

Reed, although condemning Vare and declaring him illegally nominated, announced he would not lead the fight to exclude Vare at the present session, because Vare is ill and unable to defend himself personally here.

Robinson, in introducing the resolution said he had no disposition to press for a conclusion of the case at this session.

Consideration was postponed until tomorrow under the Senate's rules. The resolution would "approve and adopt the Reed report," declaring Vare not entitled to a seat, then deny him a seat and finally extend the life of the Reed campaign fund committee indefinitely.

He was found not guilty of attempted evasion of the same taxations.

The government accused Orie of not paying income taxes in excess of $15,000.

The magistrate's brother, Stanley Orie, indicted on a gambling charge, won a postponement in Criminal Court today, when A. M. Oliver, counsel for both brothers, was unable to attend on account of John's trial.

NorthSide Kidnaping Report Proves False

Early police reports that a child had been kidnaped by three men on the North Side were discredited today. Three men were reported as having abducted the child, who was walking down in California avenue, and sped away with her last night.

2 RUNAWAY GIRLS TRY SUICIDE

Two 16-year-old girls, held by police as runaways, are in Allegheny General Hospital today following attempts, police say, to end their lives. One girl tried to hang herself in the North Side Police Station, officers there say. The other swallowed poison on a downtown street when police took her in charge, according to hospital reports.

With her scarf twisted about her neck and tied to the head of her cot, Miss Adella Hosko, 16, of 4823 Lytell street, was saved, police reported, when they found her choking in the matron's department at the North Side Station.

The girl also bumped her head against the side of her cell, police say.

Miss Hosko, police say, ran away from home on Christmas and had been staying at a North Side rooming house. She was arrested late Saturday on complaint of her mother, Mrs. Eleanor Hosko. The alleged suicide attempt occurred early yesterday.

Miss Wilma Pytiak, 16, of 1527 Penn avenue, is the other runaway who police say tried to "end it all." On complaint of her mother she was arrested late Saturday night.

The police charge she drained a bottle of poison which she produced from her pocket. They say she did not inform them of her act until after her removal to Central Police Station.

Both girls are recovering, the hospital reports.

PARLOR-GARBED BANDIT ROBS MAN OF $76

Police were searching today for what they described as "the dress suit bandit"

Attired in tuxedo and equipped with an automatic pistol, the bandit and a companion last night held up Harry Lewis, 55, a street car conductor, of Lincoln Place, Homestead Park, and robbed him of $76.

Lewis had put his car in the Butler street barns, and was walking to East Liberty. At Broad and North St. Clair streets his walk was interrupted.

From a shiny black roadster stepped a man garbed in the austere black and white of dinner dress. He was of slight build and about 25, Lewis said. His speech was soft.

"Your money, please," he commanded, swiftly drawing a pistol and pressing it against Lewis' ribs. Lewis complied.

Then the bandit ordered Lewis to resume his walk, rejoined his companion in the auto, and the pair drove off.

U. S. FINDS EVIDENCE LACKING

BULLETIN.

Three witnesses called by the government in the South Side rum conspiracy trial today, William Gorniak, Harry Brethauer and Michael Michalski, were arrested, charged with with perjury after they left the witness stand. Their testimony was said to have differed from that given before the federal grand jury and they were unable to identify defendants from whom they bought liquor.

The prosecution of the alleged South Side liquor ring partly collapsed in Federal court at the opening of the trial today when the court quashed charges against 11 of 34 defendants on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith asked that the charges be dropped.

Two defendants entered pleas of no defense. One, Police Lieut. James Rogan, forfeited $5,000 bail by nonappearance. The case against Lieut. James B. Early was withdrawn, on request of his counsel, on the ground that he had been indicted under the name of John Early.

Joe Markowitz, one of the first witnesses called by the government, testified that he had bought so-called "good whisky" for his restaurant at 1100 Sarah street at $88 a case. He identified Joe Meyers, one of the defendants, as the delivery man and Gus Meyers as the collector.

He testified that Gus told him to pay no attention to the subpena summoning him before the federal grand jury and not to tell where he bought his "stuff."

Joe Matesit, who kept a restaurant at 2848 Carson street, testified he had purchased liquor from Mickey Meyers.

ELEVEN CASES DROPPED

Those against whom charges were dropped were Anthony Arpikowski, Joseph Levendusky, Peter Hiland,

EX-CHAMP FIRED ON, BULLET WILD

International News Service.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25.—Jack Dempsey, former champion heavyweight of the world, had a narrow escape from death today when a man entered the bedroom in which he was sleepisg and fired a bullet at him. The bullet missed his head by a foot or two and was imbedded in the wall.

Dempsey was sleeping at the home of a friend in the same room with Floyd Fitzsimmons, a fight promoter of Benton Harbor, Mich., when the intruder entered. It was 3 a. m.

"Stick 'em up!" the man said.

Dempsey reached over and turned on the light. The man evidently thought Dempsey was alone. He became excited when he saw Fitzsimmons. He turned and said to a companion: "Come on, Joe." But Joe did not come in.

GUNMAN ESCAPES

Then the man fired.

Dempsey leaped out of the bed and started to pursue his assailant. The man rushed from the home, however, and escaped in the darkness.

CAUSE MYSTERY

According to the story, Dempsey and Fitzsimmons dressed and searched the vicinity for the man. Dempsey was calm throughout the episode, but later this morning he told a friend with whom he went motoring that he felt "pretty shaky."

The ex-champion made every effort to keep the matter secret.

The bullet was taken out of the wall and Dempsey had it in his possession today.

Dempsey told a friend that he could see no reason why anyone should want to shoot him. He was of the opinion that it was the work of a bandit rather than an enemy.

Police detectives were immediately assigned to the affair.

FRANK KEENAN, VETERAN OF STAGE AND SCREEN, DIES

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Frank Keenan, one of the original stage portrayers of the mythical sleeper, Rip Van Winkle, is dead.

The 70-year-old actor, who achieved fame on the boards in the '80s in his character roles, died of pneumonia at his Hollywood home late yesterday. He had been ill only a few days.

Keenan's third wife, Mrs. Leah May Keenan, his leading lady on a vaudeville tour, whom he married in Denver, Col., last October 11, was with him during the final illness. Two daughters, Mrs. Frances Wynn, wife of Ed Wynn, stage comedian, and Mrs. Frank Sloane, both of New York, also survive.

Funeral services will be held here Wednesday.

Keenan was born in Dubuque, Ia., and began his stage career at 22, in Lawrence, Mass. After playing in Boston he went to New York in "The Capitol" and "A Poor Relation." It was in New York that he developed into an actor of the first magnitude in "Rip Van Winkle" and Hearts of Oak." Road tours brought him a following throughout the country.

Keenan had taken a prominent position in the silent drama and was reputed to have amassed a fortune in that field.

FISHER BILL BOOSTING GAS TAX REPORTED READY

TAX BURDENS WIDOWS OF ACTORS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—Day after day some new case, where the payment of lately assessed back taxes causes grief and untold hardship to the screen actor, comes to our attention with the income tax return of four and five years ago being disputed by the tax collectors.

Unless you know the specific cases of heartache and despair you could hardly believe this land of glorious freedom could be guilty of such rank injustice. A tragic illustration is the case of Larry Semon, who died a few months ago, penniless.

WIDOW NEAR COLLAPSE

His wife, Dorothy Dwan, has probably earned $4,000 since his death. The government immediately descended upon her and asked her to pay his back income tax, which would take every cent she has in the world. She has been paying her husband's hospital bills and his funeral bills and even for two suits of clothes he never wore.

These burdens have left her in a state of nervous collapse. Her mother was forced to finance a trip for her to rest away from Los Angeles and recuperate. Back income tax seemed to be Larry Semon's nemesis. His money was tied up for two years in a law suit that he had with Vitagraph Film Company. Then the government came after him for $10,000. He was only able to raise $6,000, and so his home was attached for the remaining $4,000 due.

WIDOW, CHILD VICTIMS

Mrs. Earle Williams is another victim. She and her little daughter, Joan, were moderately provided for in the will left by Mr. Williams, when he died a few years ago. For years before his death, Mr. Williams worked only intermittently. What money he bequeathed was derived from the salary earned during the few years of his screen success. His salary and earned income, naturally and automatically ceased at his death.

How was he to know his income tax which he made out in 1923-24 would come under the eagle eye of the tax collector? How was he to know that certain exemptions he claimed would be questioned by the government? Mrs. Williams has received a bill for over $6,000, asserted to be due the government for discrepancies in Mr. Williams' tax returns, filed before he died.

TAXED 78 PER CENT

How is his widow to explain what he spent and what he didn't spend? His records of a personal and not of an organized business nature were not kept systematically. How is she to know whether or not that money can be rightfully collected? All she knows is that paying such a sum will incur a hardship upon her and her little daughter, five.

I have in mind the case of a well known Western film hero. During the days when he was at the height of his success, he made big money, but he has finished on the screen and hasn't made a picture in years. Uncle Sam has lately taxed him over 78 per cent of his wordly possessions.

So case after case of actors and actresses, who are harassed to a point that resembles the Spanish Inquisition, have mad the trials of the colonists and the French revolutionists seem tame by comparison.

Ex-Pittsburgher Honored in Florida

WINTER PARK, Fla., Feb. 25.—(Special.)—Along with Fred Stone, musical comedy star, and Marie Sundelius, Metropolitan Opera Company soloist, Henry Herman Westinghouse, former Pittsburgher, and younger brother of George Westinghouse, the airbrake inventor, has received an honorary degree of doctor of science from Rollins College. Suspect in Stabbing Shot in Jail Escape

William Hill, 45, steamboat fireman, was in McKeesport Hospital today with a bullet wound in his left leg as a result of his attempt to escape from the West Elizabeth lockup yesterday after he had been jailed in connection with a stabbing. He sawed open his cell and fled, but James Lane, arrested with him, refused to join Hill, and notified Burgess J. V. Abramson. Constable W. B. Valenson was sent in pursuit and when repeated shots in the air failed to halt Hill, Valenson shot the fleeing prisoner in the leg.

HONGKONG, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Col. Henry L. Stimson, governor general of the Philippines, and Mrs. Stimson arrived here today from Manila en route to the United States where Col. Stimson is expected to accept a post in the cabinet of Herbert Hoover.

They were guests at Government House today. A reception and dinner were on their program for the evening.

11 S. S. RUM CASES VOID

Charles Casey, John Weiner, John Miller, Chappie Burke, George Smith, Jack Constantine, Herbert A. Ohl and James L. Challis.

No defense pleas were entered by Cyril K. Schleicher and George Altmeyer.

The case against William Parchman was continued on plea of counsel that Parchman is ill. Two defendants, J. N. Maisey and Edward L. Smith, have not been apprehended.

By special stipulation, Peter J. McCann, now at Hot Springs, Ark., was permitted to be placed on trial. His attorneys promised he would be in court tomorrow or Wednesday.

INVOLVES POLICE

Assistant United States Attorney Smith in his opening address said the defendants had conspired to control the liquor business on the South Side, particularly the Fifteenth and Seventeenth wards. Bootleggers worked hand in hand with police, he declared.

"Raids were made when patrons didn't buy enough or overran their credit," said Smith. "You could operate on the South Side if the Ward chairman and the police said so and you bought from the right people."

"Mickey" Meyers, serving a three months' sentence, after pleading guilty to income taxe evasions, was taken from jail to the court room and placed on trial with the other defendants.

THOSE ON TRIAL

Besides Meyers and McCann the defendants who went on trial are: John J. Sweeney, Police Inspector John J. McArdle, Francis Kirley, Republican chairman of the Sixteenth Ward; "Mickey" Meyers, Gus Meyers, Joe Meyers, Sam Meyers, James Swift, Patrick McArdle, John Joyce, John M. Vandall, John Smith, Joseph Tito, Frank Priorie, Walter Dimmick and James J. O'Brien.

The trial of the 25 alleged rum racketeers in the Strip was postponed until Wednesday.

The court instructed 300 of the 500 witnesses assembled for the two prosecutions to return on that day.

The cases, another onset in the government's war on what it alleges is a gigantic liquor conspiracy here, are the latest step in the campaign begun last summer, when the grand jury indicted 167 persons, prominent politicians and police officials among them.

POLICE HEADS INCLUDED

The indictments at trial are similar to those in the big North Side indictment, which collapsed when Judge R. M. Gibson ruled that the government, while proving individual violations of the dry law, had failed to prove a general conspiracy.

SULLIVAN, ORIE ACCUSED

Twenty-seven men are named in the Strip rum conspiracy indictment. They are: State Representative Luke Sullivan; Police Magistrate John W. Orzechowski, alias John W. Orie; Police Inspector, Joseph J. Elsner; Police Lieutenant, Patrick Dixon; John H. Schnurr and John Dye; Patrolman Harry Nehf, Stanley Orzechowski, alias Stanley Orie, brother of the police magistrate; Luke Hannan, Patrick O'Malley, Thomas O'Malley, "Moo" O'Malley, Frank Deluce, Patrick Meenan, Frank Chiasta, John Peske, Walter Stec, Charles Wolf, Steve Cieksznk, Stanley Schelecki, John Burke, Martin Grady, Charles J. Stedler, Darby Hicks and Robert Scarbar.

Home-Brew Made By W. Va. Jail Prisoners

HINTON, W. Va., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Charges of making home brew in the Summers County Jail against James Carter, Negro, and other federal prisoners, were dropped after a hearing before United States Commissioner E. C. Eagle. The hearing was held in the jail.

Eagle ruled at the conclusion of testimony that there was sufficient evidence to warrant a conclusion that home brew had been made and distributed in the jail prior to January 1, but that there was not sufficient evidence upon which to hold any particular individual.

HOOVER IS BUSY AT CABINET MAKING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(INS.)—Herbert Hoover inaugurated his last week as a private citizen today by receiving a number of visitors for conferences concerning cabinet and other appointments.

William J. Donovan, now assistant attorney general, who has been mentioned for both attorney general and secretary of war, was one of the first callers today. He spent nearly an hour with the President-elect and then left, to come back later in the day. Donovan has just returned from the Southwest where he had been for a month.

Thomas D. Campbell, the Montana "wheat king" who has figured as a possible secretary of agriculture, also was a caller, as was Henry M. Robinson, the Los Angeles banker, who has been doing "scout work" for Mr. Hoover in connection with cabinet possibilities.

Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, who opposes Hoover's desire to postpone application of the national origins provision of the immigration act, had a 20-minute conference.

Other callers were Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, Representative Morgan (R) of Ohio, and F. J. Hagenbarth, of Salt Lake City, indentified with the National Wool Growers' Association.

ROBBERS COVER WIDE AREA

Robbers were busy on the South Side early today, opening a safe in the Bank Bowling Alleys, 1200 Carson street, and then looting the furnishing store of Samuel Sheiff, at 1006 Carson street. The robbers who entered the bowling alleys stole $367 in cash. An automobile, it is believed, was used to remove $200 worth of shirts and ties from the Sheiff establishment, detectives were informed.

A safe was broken open in the office of Henry Kreiling Sons & Company at 6212 Penn avenue. Cash and a gold watch, valued at $50, were taken. Thieves looted the office of the Waverly Oil Company service station at Beechwood boulevard and Wilkins avenue early today, getting $147.

The butcher shop of Matlick & Stone at 1931 Beaver avenue, North Side, was robbed of two hams. Mrs. Eva Thoma, of 69 Allen avenue, reported the loss of a diamond ring valued at $750 in a wash room of a downtown restaurant.

CRAFTON BLAZE RUINS CHURCH

Fire starting beneath the electrically-equipped organ early today destroyed the organ, spread to the roof and caused upwards of $15,000 damage to the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Belvedere street, Crafton.

An early-rising commuter living in Belvedere street, hastening to Crafton Railroad Station, discovered the fire.

He rushed to the home of A. C. Glass, opposite the church, and sounded an alarm, then hurried on to work.

Their combined efforts succeeded in checking the flames.

The church was built about 25 years ago. Recently an $80,000 addition was added, housing class rooms, gymnasium and heating plant.

ROB 12 DENTAL OFFICES OF GOLD

A special squad of detectives, acting on the orders of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, today were attempting to apprehend a gang of thieves who early today looted five dental offices in the East End, having moved to that section of the city after robbing seven downtown dental offices last week.

Scrap gold valued at several thousand dollars has been stolen by the thieves, who in every instance, obtained entrance to the offices by using a skeleton key. Five of the downtown offices were in the Jenkins Arcade Building. Detectives have been assigned to buildings in which there are many medical offices, in hope of capturing the thieves.

Two of the robberies which occurred early today were in the same building in East Liberty. They are those of Dr. Joseph Barretto and Dr. J. O. Green, at 6024 Penn avenue. The other robberies today were in the offices of Dr. J. E. Stuart, 6104 Penn avenue, Dr. B. B. Johnson, 6304 Penn avenue and Dr. J. J. Botley, 5200 Butler street. Mrs. Peabody, who won the title "Angel of France" for her brilliant work as a nurse and campaigner to raise money for war charities, received decorations from five of the Allied countries during the World War. LEGISLATORS HIT 4-CENT LEVY

By W. I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 25.—Gasoline taxes, coal and iron police and voting machines bid fair to hold the attention of the legislature which reconvenes here at 9 o'clock tonight.

According to reports today, a measure increasing the tax on gasoline from 3 to 4 cents will be introduced later this week with the tacit support of the Fisher administration and Republican leaders.

RESENTMENT AROUSED

News that such a bill is to be expected aroused considerable resentment among the members arriving today. Judging from their attitude, the increased tax will not have a chance unless Gov. Fisher, State Chairman Edward Martin, W. L. Mellon and other leaders use considerable pressure to force it in the House and Senate.

Late today, Gov. Fisher expects to confer with Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods, who has recovered from the illness that prevented his attendance here since his appointment, and Deputy Attorney General William A. Schnader on the administration bill to curb the activities of the coal and iron police. At the start of this session the Governor contemplated the introduction of such a measure and the killing of John Borcoski, Santiago miner, in connection with which three coal and iron policemen are being held, served only to steel his determination to change radically the present system.

VOTE LIKELY TOMORROW

The bill of Senator William D. Mansfield, limiting the activities of such officers and giving the state more control over them, already has reached the third reading calendar in the Senate. It is far down on the list, however, and is not likely to reach a vote until tomorrow.

Two resolutions aimed at the coal and iron police system may be called up in the House tonight. One, introduced by Carl C. Baldrige, would require all corporations to furnish the Legislature with the names and whereabouts of all such officers in their employ. The other, sponsored by Matthew A. Dunn, asks for the appointment of a legislative committee of six to investigate the coal and iron police system. This latter resolution was held up last week by Dunn at the request of M. A. Musmanno, whose bill abolishing the system and substituting "corporation guards" are being held in committee.

The voting machine bills of Senator Frank J. Harris and Albert Davis, as well as other election reform legislation, will be discussed at a hearing tomorrow afternoon before the Senate and House Elections Committee. This is expected to be one of the best attended hearings of the session.

STATE BONUS UP

Two bills of general interest are on the calendar tonight. One, on second reading in the House, is the resolution of John S. Purucker providing for a $50,000,000 bond issue for the payment of bonuses to war veterans. The other, on the same status, is the Witkin bill, increasing the salaries of all judges.

On the third reading calendar in the Senate is the Marcus bill, boosting the salaries of Allegheny county tipstaves and the Mansfield bill that gives the State Council of Education power to regulate and control the use of the words "university" and "college."

On second reading in the House are the Marcus bill raising the fees of the coroner; the Lynch bill making it a misdemeanor to wear a United States service uniform while asking alms or selling, and the two Mansfield measures putting into effect the recommendations of the independent committee that studied the salaries of teachers in Pittsburgh.

Marcus, Bell Split On Tax Board Pay

HARRISBURG, Feb. 25.—In at least one instance, the Allegheny County legislative delegation is a house divided against itself.

Joseph C. Marcus has a bill on second reading calendar that would take away from the Legislature the power to fix the salaries of members of the County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, giving that power to the Salary Board. William T. Bell has a bill in the Municipal Corporations Committee that would increase the salaries of the chairman and secretary of that board from $5,000 to $7,500 a year.

MOVEMENT TO PRESERVE OLD HOME OF GALLATIN, JEFFERSON'S TREASURER

WEST VIRGINIA WOMEN ROUSE PENNSYLVANIA TO HISTORICAL SHRINE

ROOM IN WHICH LAFAYETTE SLEPT AT GALLATIN HOME

When Gen. Lafayette visited Albert Gallatin (inset), secretary of the treasury under President Jefferson, he slept in this bedroom, then as it is today, at New Geneva, Pa. Miss Gertrude Hayes (left) and Mrs. Alvin M. Sowers are two of the Morgantown (W. Va.) women seeking to awaken Pennsylvania to the historical value of the Gallatin home.

GALLATIN HOME SHRINE FOR PATRIOTS

FRIENDSHIP HILL, Pa., Feb. 25.—Virginia has its Mt. Vernon and Monticello—homes of great men immortalized in this nation's history—but Pennsylvania, in addition to its Gettysburg, Independence Hall and countless other historical shrines, holds a veritable treasure house of Colonial lore in its rugged hills here a few miles from the Mason-Dixon line above Morgantown.

Here still stands the home of Albert Gallatin, that redoubtable statesman, pioneer and patriot, who served his country well and is recorded in history as one of the greatest secretaries of the treasury up to the present day. Here came the man who as a youth immigrated from Switzerland to lift his sword for the freedom the colonies wanted more than life. He wandered out of Virginia into the vast domain of William Penn, where he chose to settle down to learn the ways of Americans.

He purchased land and built his home which stands today on this lofty elevation overlooking the Monongahela River.

Here is another historic shrine which has lain hidden away in the hills this past century and more, and today, Pennsylvania's Legislature, awakened to Friendship Hill's historical prominence, considers purchasing the vast woodland estate.

To West Virginia, probably, goes the credit of creating this desire to establish Friendship Hill in its rightful place in American history for it was a group of earnest Daughters of 1812 who undertook to stimulate public interest in the project. Two of this original group which began its tireless efforts several years ago are still "carrying on"—Mrs. Alvin M. Sowers, president of the Friendship Hill Association, and Miss Gertrude Hayes, treasurer. Both are residents of Morgantown, W. Va.

LAFAYETTE'S ROOM INTACT

Lafayette once visited Gallatin and the room occupied by him stands today as when Lafayette left. The same hangings drape the windows and the same large four-poster dominates the chamber with its massiveness.

It is the intent of the Friendship Hill Association to keep these relics intact and they hope for favorable action at Harrisburg.

MAN DEAD, GIRL DAZED IN ROOM

When Bruno Rodgers, of Coal Center, went to a room assigned him in the Stag Hotel, 125 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, last night, he found it already had two occupants, both apparently dead. One was a young girl, the other a middle-aged man.

Police were called and were able to revive the girl, who was partially identified as "Betty, of Bloomfield." The man, identified as John Scott, 48, of 301 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, was dead. Police said they had been overcome by fumes from a gas stove.

CRANFORD, N. She had been shot, evidently as she sat in an automobile, and her body placed alongside the road and set afire.

The driver of a bakery truck, John Boyle discovered the flaming body as he drove by and reported his discovery to police. Less than a half hour previous, Henry Denner, of Belleville, N. J., driver for another bakery company, reported he sighted a blue coupe on the spot and a person stood on the road, frantically waving to him to stop. Denner said he feared a holdup and sped on.

The victim, judging by her attire, was of humble status. She was about 45, weighed 155 pounds, was 5 feet 5½ inches tall, had blonde hair streaked with gray and blue eyes.

MASTER RADIO RECEIVER CHEERS BED-RIDDEN VETS

Sixteen hundred patients in the United States Veterans' Hospital at Aspinwall can listen-in on the most select radio programs in the country while lying in bed through a master receiver recently built especially for this institution by Washington radio engineers.

The receiver, an elaborate piece of radio machinery, in addition to 1,600 headsets, serves 25 loud speakers and is equipped with a microphone connection in the auditorium so that bed-ridden patients are able to "get in on the fun," even though they must remain in bed.

Life at the Veterans' Hospital is far from monotonous even though the patients are required to relax completely, many of them having to remain in bed entirely.

As the patient progresses, he is permitted to take up vocational work, which includes toy making, leather work and various other light artistic occupations. Entertainment of various kinds is brought to the hospital auditorium by public spirited organizations and individuals and now and then a card party is held, but the favorite pastime of the boys who marched off 10 years ago is listening in on their radio.

DOPE EASIER TO OBTAIN THAN WHISKY, PROBE REVEALS

SPEEDY HOUSE VOTE ON DRUG PROBE URGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—A swelling tide of sentiment for the LaGuardia-Wheeler resolution, ordering a thorough-going Congressional investigation of the dope traffic, arose today as sponsors prepared for early action in the House on the inquiry.

Having received the unanimous indorsement of the Senate on Saturday, the resolution now must be adopted by the House and signed by the President before the probe begins. Representative LaGuardia (R.), of New York, co-author, tomorrow will ask Representative Snell (R.), of New York, chairman of the Rules Committee, for a hearing and a favorable report.

LaGuardia will turn over to Snell letters and documents from Federal officers and authorities all over the nation approving the project. These come from district attorneys, social workers, physicians and enforcement officers who are keenly aware of the necessity for more drastic legislation to combat the increasing illicit drug traffic.

DORAN APPROVES

Among those approving the inquiry are Dr. J. M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, and Col. L. G. Nutt, chief of the narcotic division. They are the chief Federal officers charged with enforcement of the Harrison narcotic act.

"It will be tragic because of the necessity for such a survey and the general demand by all authorities connected with and familiar with this problem, if the resolution should now fail of passage," said LaGuardia.

"The Senate is indeed to be congratulated for being quick to grasp the seriousness of the drug situation and for its speedy favorable action on the resolution."

KING TELLS NEED

Senator King (D.), of Utah, who was chosen by the Senate Judiciary Committee to draft the favorable report, declared the investigation offered the Federal government the best possible opportunity to arm for the battle against the drug traffickers. He said:

"The committee was unanimous in recommending the passage of the joint resolution. It deals with an important question. A great evil exists in our country growing out of the narcotic traffic, and it is important that data be obtained in order to determine what additional legislation by Congress is needed to destroy, if possible, this great evil which is affecting the health and, indeed, the morals of the country.

"It is believed that an investigation comprehensive in character, made by a proper committee, will furnish sufficient information and adequate data to enable Congress further to legislate upon this matter, and to bring about so far as possible, a suppression of this traffic evil."

The resolution provides that a committee of two senators and three representatives shall conduct the investigation.

GIRL PAYS $2.35, GETS PRESCRIPTION AND DRUGS

By A. M. ROCHLEN.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25.—Dope for sale!

Deadly habit-forming drugs can be had in Los Angeles or any other California city almost for the asking.

Investigators for the Los Angeles Examiner, co-operating with inspectors for the State Board of Pharmacy and the Board of Medical Examiners, were able to obtain large doses of morphine in "trouble-proof," legal containers, with less trouble and expense than it takes to buy a pint of bonded whisky.

All that was necessary to get this supply of narcotics—enough to form a habit and leave wreck and ruin in its path—was to follow the venomous trail of a confessed dope peddler, who this morning must face arraignment in Federal Court on charges of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

Cost Only $2.35

It cost "Miss Lucille Bland," Examiner investigator, just $2.35 to get 20 quarter-grain tablets of morphine. It is costing the United States millions of dollars and untold tragedies and sufferings to fight the menace of dope addiction.

And in this vital battle, now occupying the attention of thoughtful forces in the country, enforcement officials say they are almost powerless to combat narcotic traffic by physicians because state laws are "inadequate and uncertain."

"Miss Bland" obtained the morphine on a prescription written for her by a Los Angeles physician. She walked into his office, a stranger, told him she had been a user of narcotics and wanted some morphine for relief from asthma.

The doctor made a brief examination, wrote a prescription for five grains of the drug and charged her $1.50 for the visit. It cost only 85 cents to fill the prescription, and the entire transaction was closed.

Never Was Sufferer

Before going to the physician's office, the young woman assured the officers that she is not and never has been a sufferer from asthma.

The Examiner is presenting these facts not to single out any one doctor, but because in this case, it believes, are to be found typical factors that go to make up a grave menace to the anti-narcotic program of the state.

So far as it is possible to ascertain, there was nothing illegal in the physician's acts. But it provides an amazing example of how death-dealing drugs can gravitate from legal, registered sources to the dark, sinister haunts of the dope peddler.

Frank Olea, Mexican, 27 years old, charged with being a peddler, and with three previous arrests on narcotic charges to his record, started the trail that led to the Los Angles doctor's office.

Took Marked Money

Olea was arrested by Federal Narcotic Agent Welliver and Detectives Dozier, Humphries and Ykakum, of Capt. Seager's police narcotic squad, February 21. Officers who watched from nearby points said Olea passed two cubes of morphine to an informant and received $10 in marked money, on a dark corner in Belvedere.

Awaiting arraignment this morning, Olea talked freely. He told the writer he had been arrested before. He then told Capt. Seager, Detective Mack Berenzweig and the writer that he obtained his supply of morphine on a prescription.

"I just told the doctor I had been a user and started again because I needed the stuff for asthma. I got his name from another user. First I got 15 grains. The next time he gave me a 30-grain prescription. I used a little and then I sold the rest," Olea said.

He declared he had obtained four prescriptions at $1.50 each.

Story Checked Up

The police reports say that the informant made three previous purchases from Olea. "I made sure this man was a user before I sold him the stuff," the prisoner said in his defense.

The Examiner decided to check up this man's story.

"Miss Bland"—an assumed name for the purpose of this investigation—was sent with Detective Berenzweig and Evans, working under instructions from Chief of Police James E. Davis, to the office of the doctor named.

The young woman had never seen him. He never had laid eyes on her before.

Her story to him was simple.

Examination Very Brief

"Doctor, I am sick and need some morphine. A bus boy friend of mine told me you would give me a prescription," she told the physician.

"Have you ever used it before?" he asked.

"Yes, I used it up to eight months ago and then I quit. I came here from Denver and now my asthma is bad again," Miss Bland reported to the officers as her side of the conversation.

She said the doctor made a very brief examination of her chest.

Muscle Shoals as Flood Control Aid Urged

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Prof. Walter B. Pitkin, of Columbia University, has announced a plan for utilization of Muscle Shoals by the government to furnish flood control work in the Mississippi Valley.

The plan provides for high power transmission lines along the Ohio and Mississippi rivers from Cincinnati and St. Louis to New Orleans, carrying power from Muscle Shoals. This power would be used to operate superpower dredges and ditchers to dig a deep channel water way from St. Louis to the Gulf of Mexico deep enough to permit the passage of ocean going vessels.

POWERS RAKED BY PORTER FOR SUPPLYING U. S. OPIUM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—European nations, notably Great Britain, France and Holland, which derive vast revenues from the production of opium in their colonies, were castigated today by Representative Porter, Republican, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Speaking to the Washington forum, Porter declared America can never be freed entirely from the grip of dope until opium production is stopped at the source.

As a corollary to overproduction, Porter cited the overmanufacture of drugs by 45 European factories as one of the leading causes of the widespread drug menace in the United States.

DRUGS DRENCH U. S.

"Stop this traffic and the problem will be solved," he declared. "We cannot stop smuggling into this country when European factories are drenching us with drugs."

Porter described the domestic drug situation as generally satisfactory, although he estimated the number of American addicts as between 500,000 and 600,000.

"A man who deliberately sells drugs to a human being is an assassin and he should be treated as an assassin," Porter stated.

Particularly bitter was Porter in denouncing the British opium policy. He told how Lord Cecil, on a lecture tour in America, was summoned post haste to Geneva to head the British delegation at the opium conference in 1925. America withdrew from this conference because the powers would not agree to curtail production.

CONGRESS ACTION URGED

"One of Lord Cecil's first acts at Geneva was to make a speech approving the eating of opium in India," said Porter. "Later, Lord Incheape was sent to India to study financial conditions there. In his report he recommended that the opium revenue be not disturbed."

Porter announced he would press for action in the next Congress on a bill to deprive drug peddlers of parole privileges. Under present law, he pointed out, Joseph Unger, who was sentenced to 11 years in prison on a drug charge, would be eligible for parole in four and one-half years. Unger was arrested during investigation of the Arnold Rothstein murder in New York.

P. N. G. Honor Escort In Inaugural Parade

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 25.—The Pennsylvania escort of honor, which sailed to France last May and dedicated battlefield monuments at Fismes and Varennes and conducted Memorial day ceremonies in the cemetery at Romagne-en-Argonne, will have a prominent part in the inauguration festivities in Washington, it was announced today. Each unit of the Pennsylvania National Guard will send its accredited honor man to parade with the escort.

From Franklin, First Sergt. John Ewing will go as the city's representative, on behalf of Company L, One Hundred and Twelfth Infantry.

Vatican and Italy Settlement on Screen

A complete and thrilling motion picture of the signing of the treaty between the Vatican and Italy, ending the 60-year feud, is contained in the current issue of the Hearst news reels, M.-G.-M. News and International Newsreel. Never before have such intimate pictures been made of His Holiness the Pope and other church dignitaries, it is pointed out.

The pictures of the actual signing of the treaty in the Lateran Palace are a part of the official film record of the historic ceremony and were photographed for the Hearst newsreels by the Institute National Luce, of which Baron Alexander Sardi is president. They show Cardinal Gasparri, representing the church, listening to the reading by Premier Mussolini of the terms of the accord, which recognizes the Pope's temporal power and creates an independent state of the Vatican. Then follows the actual signing of the pact, Cardinal Gasparri, as papal secretary of state, signing for the Pope.

Probably the most remarkable of the pictures are those made on the following day when 200,000 persons gathered in St. Peter's Square in Rome to acclaim the Holy Father. A sudden heavy downpour of rain fails to scatter the faithful or to even dampen their wild enthusiasm. A hundred thousand umbrellas are raised adding to the picturesqueness of the scene. Suddenly the Holy Father appears on the balcony of St. Peter's. It is his first appearance as the ruler of a free "State." He blesses the multitude.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE WHITE PEACOCK

By LILLIACE M. MITCHELL

AFTER Emerson Hays had finished paying up all of the notes which his partner had signed, he found himself without a business, with no income and an expensive apartment on his hands.

An advertisement in a newspaper quickly disposed of the apartment lease. If that didn't assist the income at least it saved a certain amount of outgo. The Emerson Hays had decided that they could move out to the farm property which was the only thing in the world that they owned.

Any one of a hundred other couples might have liked the farm but neither Emily nor Emerson liked farm life. The former tenant had been an animal lover who had spent so much time with animals that the place was completely run down.

"And I'm going to give you my white peacock," the tenant told Emily at the parting. "White peacocks are very, very rare. I'd never leave Caesar except that I really don't know what to do with him."

"We'll get rid of that silly thing immediately," growled Emerson Hays while the hired motor car was still zig-zagging its rough way down the graveled country road, carrying away the former tenant.

In the city Emily had always agreed absolutely with anything her husband had said. Now she developed an unexpected habit of thinking and speaking to herself. She looked distastefully about the fenced-in yard with the sagging gate, the overgrown weeds, the sickly remnants of last season's flowers and, trailing dejectedly about with his tail feathers dragging, the white peacock.

"We'll keep him," said Emily. "He's the only speck of refinement about the whole place. If we lost the white peacock we'd just be one-horse farmers without even the one horse!"

"Refinement?" grinned Emerson with the first sunny smile that had covered his face for weeks. "Refinement, you say? Well, if that scraggly old bird looks like refinement to you we'll certainly keep the old scoundrel if I have to stay up nights to keep the robbers away from him!"

Even Emily had to laugh at the idea of robbers searching out the bedraggled Caesar. "I'll give him a scrubbing even before I scrub out that house," she said, "and you paint the biggest 'For Sale' sign you can make and stick it right here in the front yard."

The sign was made and duly raised. The white peacock was scrubbed in warm, soapy water although from the antics he cut up while Emily struggled with him it was evident that this was his first experience with water.

While Emily scrubbed and painted inside the house, Emerson raked and painted and hammered outside, trying to get the place in some kind of shape to advertise. In the meantime he kept answering advertisements for positions and at last got just the connection he had been looking for.

"But with just one more little jerk at this place, we'd have it in some shape to sell," he told Emily.

They were still talking over the pros and cons of going back to the city immediately when a car stopped at the gate and a woman got out heavily.

"This is the place, Jim," she said loudly to the man in the car. "You wait right here!"

She planned, she told them during the course of the next hour, to raise foxes. She had been driving about the country looking here and there for practical sites for a fox farm, something far enough off the state roads to be safe and yet close enough for transportation to be convenient. She looked the place over and said carelessly that she would take it.

"You have the cash?" asked Emily, hardly able to believe her ears.

"Yes, I'll pay $500 down as earnest money and the balance when they tell me the title is good," said the woman.

"But how did you ever happen to stop at this place?" Emerson Hays asked when they had completed the hasty transaction.

"Well, Bert and I drove by here a week ago when you were fixing the gate. I kinda liked the looks of it then, but I thought we'd look on a little farther to make sure this was the best before we came in. Well, sir, then we lost track of the roads and I didn't know your name and Bert and I had quite a time finding you folks again. Then we remembered your old white gobbler——"

"White—gobbler?" said Emily, almost in hysterics.

"Yes—him," the woman said, pointing a casual finger at Caesar.

"He's—he's a white peacock," Emily explained. "They are very, very rare——"

"He's included in the place?" cut in the woman.

"Oh, yes indeed," Emerson Hays assured her.

And an hour afterwards when the woman and her husband had left, Emily and Emerson gravely danced about the ancient white peacock. "You're a beautiful bit of refinement," Emerson sang, in a lusty bass voice.

But Caesar only snapped at them. He didn't understand all of this washing and dancing and singing!

AFTER ONE WEEK KONJOLA BROUGHT SPLENDID HEALTH

Relates How Two Years of Ill Health Yielded to Merits of Famous Medicine — Pays Glowing Tribute to New Remedy.

Remarkable, indeed, are many of the surprising recoveries that Konjola, the new medicine, has brought about; cases that have yielded to this super-remedy after having resisted every other medicine and treatment tried. Not a day passes but that the records of this master medicine are enriched by the reports from those who have found in this compound of 32 ingredients the only remedy that touched their cases. How Konjola does this; how it works so quickly in the obstinate cases, is being explained daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city. Daily, throngs call to learn what this amazing medicine means to them. There the Konjola Man is pointing out verified instances of Konjola's triumphs. He does not deal in promises; Konjola's record of success is its recommendation; therein lies the bright hope for all who suffer. How interesting is the experience of Mr. William J. McDonald, 827 Merchant Street, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

MR. WILLIAM J. McDONALD

"Konjola worked in such a speedy manner that I was absolutely amazed. I had taken but one bottle when my health troubles vanished. Two years ago I got into a terribly rundown state. My system was weak and my organs functioned sluggishly. I suffered a great deal with my stomach. Pains centered in my lower bowels. Gas bloating, a sour stomach and indigestion pains occurred after each meal. My appetite was entirely gone and I was unable to rest well at night. I was inclined to be nervous and had but little energy or pep. I tried many medicines and treatments but failed to get any relief.

"I was inclined to scoff at the idea of Konjola benefiting me. I failed to see how this one medicine could accomplish all that the others failed to do. But when my case got worse, I was willing to take one more chance for betterment. Well, Konjola turned out to be all that is claimed for it. After just one week, a remarkable change came over my system. My stomach was cleansed and strengthened—food digested better than in two years and the after-eating distress vanished. I gained strength and energy—felt almost like a different person and was sleeping soundly at night. My nerves are calm and settled. In every way I have been benefited. I can only say that Konjola richly deserves all the praise and more than it receives."

Just another splendid chapter in the astounding history of this master medicine; just another reason why Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company, formerly McCulloch's, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburghers in Midst Of Social Famine of Lenten Season

DAYS when there was famine in the land we usually associated with the middle ages or some period before the industrial age brought prosperity to the world. But there are famines of many kinds. Today in industrial Pittsburgh the population is not suffering from want of food. But it is enduring a famine, I insist—a famine of social activity.

Just as soon as Lent is with us again, conservative Pittsburgh society bans balls and dinners and due gaiety. In other cities there is a noticeable slump in social activity during the Lenten period, but still they have many benefit affairs and balls to palliate the dullness which at this period in Lent becomes oppressive. In the East it has become a tradition to hold a Mi-careme ball when for one night one may become light-hearted again. At this period, of late days, a few weddings of note usually take place.

Here in Pittsburgh no such traditional event leavens the heaviness of eventless February or March. If any weddings are solemnized at this season, they are invariably small.

The only diversion the social monitors allow the stay-at-homes in the Lenten season is news of travllers and of future events.

* * *

MANY of those who cannot absent themselves from the'r families long enough for a trip to Europe or to Florida at this season, go to Atlantic City. Mrs. W. Edgar Reed, of Fifth and Amberson avenues, Mrs. Allison R. Maxwell, of Bennington avenue, and Mrs. G. Cook Kimball, of Beechwood boulevard, returned yesterday from the shore where they'd been for 10 days.

* * *

MID-MARCH and April will see the return of many of our wanderers. It will be refreshing to have a "quota" of the social world in town again, won't it?

Mrs. Charles J. Ramsburg and her two daughters, Harriet and Margaret, who've been abroad this winter, will not be back until quite late—April 21, I understand.

* * *

BUSINESS and the theaters and friends all attract Pittsburgh folks to New York. Just now Clarissa Reed, daughter of the Samuel Clarke Reeds, of Murrayhill avenue, is in Gotham, did you know?

And Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, of Hobart street, has just returned from a New York visit.

* * *

HELEN TODD, daughter of George A. Todd, of the Schenley Apartments, is planning to be away the greater part of March. She'll go to Florida to be the guest of friends.

Her engagement to G. Warren Wattles, Jr., son of the G. Warren Wattleses, of Denniston avenue, was announced in January. At first I thought she might be planning a spring wedding, but now I hear a summer date probably will be chosen.

* * *

IT'S hard to keep from mentioning Palm Beach these days, isn't it? The word has so many joyful connotations—gaiety and sunshine and redolent summer flowers.

On Saturday night all the prominent folks at Palm Beach were at the musicale the Hugh Dillmans, of New York, gave in their Ocean boulevard villa, Playa Riente, when Elizabeth Rethberg and Beniamino Gigli sang. After the concert, a buffet supper was served in the patio. Among the many guests were noted the James Francis Burkes, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, her son, Henry Oliver Rea, the Alfred G. Kays and a number of former Pittsburgh folks.

* * *

DOWN at Nassau, Bahamas, no social event can be mentioned without including the word yacht in the description. Races are the most exciting events of social life there, and then there are yachting parties, and dinners and dances on yachts.

Among those cruising on their yachts who've stopped for a while at Nassau are the William Larimer Mellons. They and their party have arrived there on the Mellon yacht, the Vagabondia. Matthew Taylor, Mrs. Mellon's brother, is one of the party.

* * *

AT a luncheon given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Mc Graw, of Mansfield avenue, West End, announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Emmabelle McGraw to Walter T. Johnson, of North Dakota. An early summer wedding is planned.

* * *

MRS. FRED H. SOCHOR, of Carnegie, entertained with a bridge luncheon Saturday in the William Penn Hotel to announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Margaret Sochor, to William D. Stevenson, of Philadelphia.

* * *

MRS. SAMUEL PHILSON, of Braddock avenue, entertained at luncheon in her home Friday in honor of Mrs. Frank Anderson, of Bryn Mawr road.

THE PATROL of the Ladies' Oriental Shrine will hold a novelty card party Thursday night in the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. Robert Hazlett is chairman, assisted by Mrs. J. S. IN celebration of its tenth anniversary, the Woman's Club of Ingram had a birthday offering for the building fund when the members met this afternoon in the Firemen's Association Building. A Colonial tea and musicale marked the day. Under the direction of Mrs. J. L. Brown the club choral sang and the program included readings by Mrs. W. D. Yingst, of Duquesne. The tea was in charge of Mrs. Errol B. Miller with Mrs. A. J. Jessup, Mrs. D. B. Kelley, Mrs. H. A. Kearney and Mrs. Florence Kirk serving as hostesses.

White, as chairman of the county government committee, will present the program. A debate on "Should the American Jury System Be Abolished?" will be given by the girls' debating team from the University of Pittsburgh, under the supervision of Miss Theresa Kahn, faculty director of woman's debating. Alice McAfee, a junior, and Sara Drum, a sophomore, will take the negative side, while Sylvia Berman, a junior, and Elizabeth Smith, a senior, will have the affirmative.

Members of the Bellevue league will give a practical demonstration of an election board at work on Wednesday afternoon in the Bellevue Borough Hall, and later Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz will speak. Mrs. S. E. Evans will be hostess for the afternoon.

SOCIAL service day will be celebrated Sunday by the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society in the Y. M. & H. A. Mrs. Helen Glenn Tyson, case consultant of the Jewish family welfare of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, and Miss Miriam Finkelstein, executive director of social service at Montefiore Hospital Dispensary, will speak. Mrs. Vera Kaighn Nirella will sing.

Stronger Bones, Better Teeth for your Children

Now a famous hot breakfast food gains needed Sun Vitamin from Ultra-Violet Rays

THIS is important news for mothers. Now, for the first time, it's possible to get in a hot breakfast food Quaker Farina—the bone-building effect of sunshine!

Sunlight's part in health is generally known. But scientists only recently have learned just why sunlight has such beneficial effects. They call the reason Vitamin "D." This vitamin takes lime from the bloodstream, changes it into bones and muscle. No matter how much lime-containing food a child may eat, if Vitamin "D" is lacking, it yields only limited lime. When a child lacks the sun vitamin, bones fail to develop properly, appetite is poor. He catches cold easily.

In winter, children practically everywhere suffer from too little sunshine. 90% in northern cities, authorities say. So health authorities have long sought for a simple, easy way to give everybody more "sunshine." Now that way has been found. It is by "irradiating" Quaker Farina, famous hot breakfast food, with Ultra Violet Light under the Steenbock Process. Thus it gains the "sun vitamin" and can pass it on to you!

All grocers have the new Irradiated Quaker Farina. This cereal is made of the creamy white heart of the wheat. It's of fine flavor, easy and quick to digest. And now because of Vitamin "D," it is healthful as no other hot cereal can claim to be. Start serving it to your children. NOTE: All Quaker Farina is irradiated although some packages are not so marked.

This tad is getting plenty of sunshine—but only summer offers such opportunities

IRRADIATED Quaker Farina

. . . HANDS UP!

DO THEY LOOK OLD?

NO more prematurely old hands! Never need your hands be red, roughened or coarsened again. Busy as they may be, they can be perfectly protected with a marvelous new kind of massage cream which is guaranteed to keep them soft and white and supple.

THINC Hand Creme (pronounced "think"), is entirely new—not a cold cream, vanishing cream or lotion. It is especially designed to protect your hands, to preserve their precious, youthful beauty.

Try this two-minute test: rub a tiny bit of THINC on one hand. See how it instantly whitens the skin, smoothes away every bit of roughness and soothes tiny cracks without making your hand the least bit greasy! Now compare the two hands. The difference is astonishing. Massage the cream into both hands—it makes them as cool and smooth and white as alabaster. No roughness, no discoloration. You might have been folding them demurely in your lap, so little do they show the signs of use.

If one treatment can work such wonders, think what consistent use of THINC Hand Creme will do for your hands! Your charming, youthful hands can be a source of pride.

Make THINC a daily beauty habit—a youth habit. You can get it at any drug store, toilet counter or beauty shop. Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. It won't cost a penny if you are not delighted with it. Return the jar and your money will be refunded.

This is the THINC trade mark that you will find on every package of THINC Hand Creme.

BLUE LAW MODIFICATION BILL AMENDMENT ASKED

Representative James Wettach will be asked by the Association for the Modification of the Blue Laws of 1794 to amend his bill to eliminate the provision that would permit the charging of admission for charitable or educational purposes on Sundays.

This announcement was made in a statement issued today by Col. A. W. Wyckoff, president of the association, who said the amendment would be asked so that the intent of the bill should not be misunderstood.

In addition to that change, Wettach will be asked to eliminate the provision that would permit the selling of accessories and supplies needed for wholesome games, entertainments and diversions that the bill would make lawful.

The statement was issued by Col. Wyckoff on behalf of the executive committee composed of Mrs. George P. Bassett, Jr., L. H. Burnett, J. W. Cree, Jr., Miss H. Marie Dermitt, George R. Dorman, J. H. Hillman, Jr., A. L. Humphrey, Wilmer M. Jacoby, T. Clifton Jenkins, George W. McCandless, Wilson S. McClintock, Stewart C. McFarland, Frank Wilbur Main, Mrs. George S. Oliver, William B. Rodgers, Mrs. W. B. Schiller, Lloyd W. Smith and John B. Tonkin. It reads:

"Publication of the text of the Wettach bill sponsored by our organization with the sole idea of promoting healthful recreation and non-commercial entertainment on Sunday, resulted in charges being made that our goal was the wide-open or continental Sunday. Certain sections of our bill were pointed to as bearing out these charges and the demand made that the Pennsylvania Legislature should defeat this measure because of these certain sections.

CLARIFY BILL

"As our organization had no such intention, the executive committee thereof, in consultation with our general counsel, has come to the conclusion that in order that the real purpose of this movement shall not be obscured, the sections in the bill in question will not be further pressed by us. In passing upon our bill as originally drafted, we did not consider these sections as tending toward the wide-open Sunday, nor, as a matter of fact, really essential to the attainment of our object. They had been inserted and left in the bill because they seemed to express the more modern tendency toward the observance of Sunday, while at the same time they were not designed to permit of a commercialized Sunday.

"Certain citizens who believe that the Blue Laws of 1794 in their present form are obsolete and absurd, feared that the intent of our bill would be misunderstood, its passage jeopardized and no real purpose attained by leaving the criticized sections in the bill, so we therefore have determined to ask Representative Wettach to present the necessary amendments to the Law and Order Committee and proceed in our effort to enact a law which will put the observance of Sunday on a sane and equitable basis, under which the poor as well as the rich may find recreation in harmless ways outside of church hours.

RESPECT SABBATH

"Our organization, composed as it is of church members and churchgoers, who yield to none in this community a higher respect for the sanctity of the Sabbath Day, but who insist that it is no more harmful for boys to play baseball than for rich men to play golf, that it is no more wrong to listen to a concert of classical music in a public auditorium than it is to do the same thing behind the walls of a private club, commend this measure in its new and final form to the common sense, the justice and fairness of the people of Pennsylvania, and to the wisdom of the members of the General Assembly, especially to those who constitute the Law and Order Committee, to which the Wettach bill, known as H. R. 742, has been referred."

Blue Law Obsolete, Minister Declares

The Sunday Blue Laws of 1794 are consistent neither with early Christian teaching nor modern Christian practice, the Rev. Frank E. Smith, associate pastor of the First Unitarian Church, told his congregation yesterday. Praising the effort afoot to modify the old laws, Mr. Smith declared it would be hypocrisy to keep on the statute books laws which even their most ardent supporters consistently violated.

Short Talk By a Thoughtful Mother

An Indiana mother tells this: "We find nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds. My little lad had trouble with his bronchial tubes from his third year, but since we started giving him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound we have been able to control it. We know there is nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." The very name tells a story. Good also for croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A PRACTICAL AND POPULAR GARMENT FOR YOUNG CHILDREN

Percale was selected in this instance, with linene for facings on pocket, collar, sleeves, belt and leg bands. Pongee or linen with piping in a contrasting color is nice. Dimity and printed lawn are also suggested. A yoke with tab extensions tops the front above gathered fulness. Pleasing pockets and a neat collar, together with a short sleeve, faced to match collar and pockets, add to the attraction of this little model. The leg portions are gathered to comfortable bands, and the inner edges are finished for a closing with buttons or snap fasteners. Comfort and convenience are expressed in this design.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: Six months, 1 and 2 years. To make this garment for a 1-year size will require 1⅛ yards of material 36 inches wide, together with ¾ yard of contrasting material for facing on collar, pockets, belt, sleeves and leg bands.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

When your Children Cry for It

Mothers who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation. It comforts Baby and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it freely—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A more liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children, when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colds, etc., show they need a good purging. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

Fundamentalist Foe Resigns Pastorate

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—The Rev. Charles Francis Potter, foe of fundamentalism and champion of evolution, has resigned as pastor of the Universalist Church of the Divine Paternity, Manhattan. His progressive teachings are said to have caused dissension among his parishioners.

Mr. Potter first attracted attention to himself a few years ago by debating the question of evolution with the Rev. John Roach Straton and later when, as a Bible expert, he aided the defense in the Scopes evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn.

Capital Church Fire Causes $40,000 Loss

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—A fire which broke out just after early mass yesterday morning in St. Dominic's Catholic Church here caused a loss estimated at $40,000. The roof was almost entirely burned away and much of the interior was damaged by the intense heat and water.

It was the second fire to damage the church. In 1885, 10 years after it was built, a blaze destroyed the sanctuary and organ.

Women Bosses of Town

WOMEN do not exactly run Union, S. C., but they have a lot to say about who does. The postmaster is a woman. So is the deputy of probate. A woman is in charge of the telegraph and telephone business.

Meditations of a Wife

BY HELEN ROWLAND

Where Is My Wondering Boy?

THREE-QUARTERS of the average woman's life is spent in wondering where some man IS.

* * *

This is a wanton waste of time, energy and beauty sleep. Because any woman's attempt to keep tabs on a man is a lost cause from the start.

* * *

The only thing of which you can be absolutely certain, in this world, is that no man is ever where you THINK he is!

* * *

When you visualize him in faultless evening clothes, entirely surrounded by dangerous and alluring women or dining with a chorus girl, he is much more likely to be serenely sleeping with his mouth open—and dreaming of you.

* * *

And when you picture him sitting wistfully by his lone fireside dreaming of you, he is probably sitting in at an all-night poker game, or singing "Sweet Adeline" in a tearful falsetto, with his arm around another man's neck.

* * *

When you sadly imagine him slaving down at the office, he may be merely hanging around the hotel lobby, flirting with the telephone girl or joking with Tony, the barber.

* * *

And when you have visions of him strolling in the moonlight with another woman or dancing with a starry-eyed debutante, he may be sitting in his lonely den, smoking his pipe and conscientiously writing home to mother.

* * *

When you have been waiting for him a long, painful half hour and are shivering with apprehension at the mental picture of his mangled body under the wheels of a taxicab or lying on a stretcher in the hospital, he is probably only finishing a game of pinochle or standing on the street corner exchanging a few "good ones" with "one of the boys."

* * *

And, strange as it may seem, not EVERY man who leaves word that he is "in conference" is out lunching with a blonde. No, really! SOMETIMES he is in conference! You never can tell!

* * *

Nothing, except the future life or the weather, or a prima donna's temperament, is more UNCERTAIN than a man's whereabouts!

* * *

And nothing except an aeroplane can travel faster than a woman's imagination, while she's waiting for him. That is probably the reason why a man never TELLS a woman anything. He knows that the simple truth would be so much less thrilling than the things she THINKS about him.

* * *

But as long as she can conjure up thrilling, exciting and terrifying visions of what a man is doing while he's out of her sight, a woman's life will never be dull!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Soup Spoon

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. What kind of spoon should soup be eaten with? The table was set with two teaspoons at extreme right of plate, and what I would call a soupspoon farther down the line. If the large spoon is not used for soup what is it to be used for?

2. How are vegetables taken from individual plates to the dinner plate?

3. Are croutonnes, when served on bread and butter plate, put into the soup?

4. Should one ever bite bread or cake?

5. When the head waiter pulls out a chair should the lady sit in it, or should her escort pull out the chair opposite for her?

PRUDENCE.

THERE are various kinds of soup spoons, all correct. For the soup served in soup plates, there is the dessert spoon (which I think the most convenient spoon for soup); there is the round bowl soup spoon preferred by many people (judging from the enormous number sold every year); and there is the tablespoon, used by our English cousins and by very many people in this country. For soup served in bouillon cups, there is the bouillon spoon, and for soup served in the deservedly popular cream soup bowl, there is the cream soup spoon, recently put on the market.

I cannot answer your question definitely without knowing the menu, and for what courses the teaspoons were to be used. One may have been for a fruit cocktail or grapefruit or melon, served before the soup. The rule is, as you know, that the silver pieces should be placed in the proper order, so that the person eating may begin with the utensil farthest from the plate "and work toward the plate."

2. Serving pieces are usually seen in pairs, with the fork on the left. On the dish with the vegetables should be placed a serving spoon and fork, the fork on the left.

3. Yes.

4. I don't know what you mean by this question. Will you be so kind as to write me again and tell me?

5. The lady takes either chair that she wishes.

Mourning Period

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I will be very glad and thankful if you will tell me how long a girl of 16 should stay in mourning when she has lost her father?

WONDERING.

USUALLY now a girl of 16 doesn't go into mourning, but simply wears dark, inconspicuous clothes. But if she does go into mourning, she may wear it for from six months to a year, as her family determines.

Introducing Husband

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please settle this dispute? My friend thinks it is proper, when introducing her husband to someone she knows very well, just to say, "Mrs. Black, I want to present my husband," or "Mrs. Black, this is my husband." I think she should use her husband's name, just as if she were introducing someone other than her husband. What do you think?

2. What do you think of my writing material?

A READER.

THE forms of introduction used by your friend are correct. Family introductions are less formal than other kinds of introductions.

2. I am not enthusiastic about one-sheet letter paper, but for this kind yours is in good form. "Respectfully yours," however, is no longer in good form. "Very truly yours," or "Very sincerely yours" are better closings of rather formal letters, the first always proper for business letters.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, February 26

THIS day's sidereal operations may foster and promote the things of the mind and all those employments, pursuits and avocations calling for mental activity and capability. Correspondence, writings, publicity, publishings and kindred things flourish, but other affairs are in danger of sudden and devastating visitations. There is a warning against abrupt and ill-considered change, journey or removal. Also against small worries and deceptions.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly active and successful year if engaged in mental pursuits, printing, publishing, advertising, writing. But there are hostile possibilities from sudden change, travel or other precipitate occurrences, or small deceits.

A child born on this day may be brilliant and clever in many directions, but may be subject to many sudden reversals and tribulations in life.

Mind is a kingdom to the man who gathered his pleasures from ideas.—Tupper.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Careful Living May Forestall Heredity.

IF, in your family, a death has occurred from cancer, tuberculosis, liver complaint or any other ailment, you perhaps have a lingering fear that you may get the same disease. It is natural to worry over a thing of this sort.

DR. COPELAND

I want to talk with you on this subject. There is no need to be frightened over such a prospect and you should know it.

There are a few diseases where heredity has a bearing, or a possible bearing, upon the passing on of disease from one generation to another. But it is not so with reference to the ailments mentioned.

It is true that there may be the transfer of a tendency to disease. But it is one thing to have the tendency and quite another actually to get the disease.

Tuberculosis, for instance, is an acquired disease. It may be acquired by one parent long after the birth of the child. In no way whatever could it be transmitted by what we call heredity.

We must bear in mind that physical traits run in families. I have a big nose like my father's and my grandfather's. You may have ears or feet like your ancestors. Likewise, you might have a narrow chest like one of your parents.

If there is a narrow chest and small lung capacity, it might be that the overworked little lungs might have the same tendency to disease that your mother's had. Perhaps she came in contact with the germs of tuberculosis at some time when her bodily resistance was low.

But just because one of your ancestors met with this misfortune is no reason why you should. You may have the same sort of anatomy and the same tendency, but if you guard your health better than your ancestors did, you will be safe.

Forget the names of diseases for a minute while I make a general statement which applies to all diseases: By keeping your body well nourished and avoiding habits that may lower the resistance, you are pretty safe against all diseases.

To have a well-nourished body you must eat good food and balance your meals properly. You must breathe deeply, get into the fresh air and light, sleep enough in a well-ventilated room, and keep busy at some agreeable occupation. You must be happy and not worry. You must take recreation and have entertainment. You must cultivate good friends.

There is an occasional family, the members of which live beyond the usual expectation. I saw some interesting figures to show that at least 20 per cent of the children of parents who live to be past 80 will be equally long lived.

But we must not forget that most persons who live to be very old have had model habits, which they trained their children to follow. Precept and example have had as much to do with richness of years as any inherited traits.

Don't worry over what happened to your ancestors. Order your own life according to what hygiene has taught. That will give you powers of resistance against all diseases.

SHE THOUGHT HER CASE HOPELESS

Yet ALL-BRAN Brought Relief Almost Immediately —No Trouble Since

When constipation once gets a grip on a person, it is almost impossible to relieve it, let alone prevent it with drugs and treatments. But here's a lady who was freed from her suffering—read her letter.

"Mine was an extreme case of constipation and although I had tried about everything that was recommended to me, I had almost given up hopes of ever being relieved.

"One day I came across your advertisement, so I thought I would try ALL-BRAN. It relieved me almost immediately and I have had no trouble since, which was almost three months ago."—Mrs. E. E. Leslie, 2104 Lyman St., Flint, Michigan.

Your system must have roughage or bulk daily, otherwise constipation is almost inevitable. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply this bulk. It is a healthful cereal to eat every day. To use in cooked dishes or serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation and to prevent it. Far better than pills and laxatives whose doses often have to be increased to be effective. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran and is 100% effective. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LOVE'S AWAKENING -:- -:- A CONTINUATION OF LOVE'S EMBERS

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Believes That Mary Is in Love.

I WAITED a minute before answering Harry Underwood's query concerning Mary's knowledge of the identity of Prince Georges, of Trees, for I wondered how much I really knew of the things going on inside the brain of Dicky's young niece.

"I am reasonably sure that she does not guess who he really is," I said at last, "although she has heard the version he and Princess Olina have given to the people, fortunately few in number, who needed to have an explanation of their status.

"Of course their real secret is known to Father, Katherine, Mr. Veritzen, you and Lillian and to Dickey and me. But Mother Graham, Marion, Mary and Noel, together with the Tigers, Katie, Jim and Otto, all of whom were involved more or less in that night's happenings, have been told that Olina is an heiress whose people wish her to marry an old man—part of the truth, you see, and that she is staying over here until her parents relent. Georges is explained by saying that he is her cousin and childhood playmate, in sympathy with her and staying over here to look after her. This also is part of the truth for those royal families are all related in some way or other."

Yes, that's what is the matter with most of them, Mr. Underwood commented dryly, "But has it ever struck you that young Georges is in the position of the well-known youth who could be happy with either, were t'other dear charmer away.

I looked at him in the surprise with which one hears another person voice a secret thought of one's own.

"Yes I have thought of it often," I said, "He is very much attracted to Mary, however, fancies himself very much in love with her."

"Oh, yes, Mr. Underwood smiled, "the world well lost and all—and all that sort of thing. But I'm wondering how he'll feel when he finds out—

He pulled himself up abruptly and looked a bit shamefacedly at me.

"I'm getting garrulous in my old age," he said, "Please forget I said that last Lady Fair. It hasn't anything to do with the price of onions and I ought not to bother you with it if I had. But I would like to know your opinion on something else if you feel that you can tell me without violating any confidence. Where does Mary stand—about Noel I mean. Of course anybody with ordinary eyesight can see where Noel is perched. But Mary's an enigmatic youngster—witness this last discovery you've made about her bank checks to this Janet Rawdon person. You've got one of the keenest brains I ever knew. Do you figure that Mary's in love with Noel or Georges or neither—perhaps with somebody with whom this Rawdon dame forms a link?"

I flushed at this compliment, then hurried into the answer I did not need to consider, for I had spent many hours in asking myself the question Harry Underwood just had put to me.

"I think Mary is fascinated by the attentions of Georges, has a romantic affection for Noel, strengthened by his father's opposition—and is in love—with her chance of a career."

"Your lips are too pretty to say a cruel thing like that," Mr. Underwood said chidingly.

"Why is it cruel?" I answered hotly. "Even if it be true—it is only my opinion, remember. Is it anything to a girl's discredit that she rules her heart with her head, and puts her ambition first?"

He looked at me curiously.

"Is that the theory you're believing in now, Lady Fair?" he asked.

The Unfolding Butterfly -:- By Madge Geyer

HAVE you ever watched the development of a butterfly? If you have, you must often have compared the emergence of the moth from its cocoon to the gradual process of growth in human beings. Both are natural phenomena deserving of note. But ask any young man in love which is the more interesting!

There is a drabness about the moth that is not discernible in the sweet girl of 15. She is, it is true, quiet, reserved, for she has not yet found her gaudily painted wings. In her cocoon, she is a petulant child, victim of every whim and fancy. But once she has found her brilliant raiment—once she has left behind her all traces of the moth—she is a scintillating butterfly of rare wonder.

Like the butterfly, she is light-winged, elusive. She flits among the fragrant flowers, alighting only upon those that take her fancy. It requires patience and good humor to catch and hold her. But once caught, what a prize! What a fragment of charm and color and gaiety!

Watch well your butterflies, oh seekers after youth. They will bear ensnaring.

'SUICIDE' OF EX-ACTRESS' HUSBAND BEING PROBED

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 25.—A pistol, broken open at the breech, injected an element of mystery today into the death of Fred C. Deininger, 26-year-old heir to the General Baking Company millions.

Deininger was found by his wife, the former Virginia Danforth, musical comedy actress, on the sleeping porch of their home with a bullet wound in his head and the pistol on the floor beside him. The one cartridge in the weapon had been discharged.

Pistol experts of the police department said it would have been impossible for him to have opened the gun after shooting himself, adding that it was highly improbable that the gun was opened in falling. Although Coroner David H. Atwater pronounced the case suicide, the police turned the case over to the district attnorey's office.

Mrs. Deininger told police that after guests had departed early yesterday morning, her husband burst into tears over the affairs of the tire business in which he was engaged since leaving the baking business.

She said she remonstrated with him, whereupon he left the bedroom, going out onto the sleeping porch. A few moments later she said she heard the shot.

Mrs. Deininger is the daughter of William Danforth, musical comedy comedian of Syracuse, N. Y. She and their infant daughter Phyllis, survive.

Quick relief for COLDS since 1889

Good for headaches as well as colds

Dad has taken care of his colds for more than 35 years with GROVE'S BROMO QUININE; but it took his modern daughter, Alice, just a week to find out two new uses he hadn't ever thought of.

The qualities which make these pleasant tablets a powerful weapon in beating colds, make them: 1, amazingly effective against trying headaches; 2, quick—though gentle—in relieving constipation.

That is why so many thousands are never without the handy white box. It is small enough to fit vest-pocket or purse. Its cost is less than the price of two sodas. Yet the 20 tablets are more than sufficient for 10 complete treatments.

Easy to take, GROVE'S BROMO QUININE regularizes and tones the entire system. The benefits are quickly apparent. Resistance is definitely built up, and Nature is given aid in avoiding and throwing off colds. Headache, feverish condition, sluggish bowels, stopped-up head, and nasty colds; all yield with surprising speed....For your own sake, remember that there is only one Bromo Quinine. So emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

UNUSUAL 'ACTS' CROWD RADIO PROGRAMS

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

WOOF! Woof! Bow-wow! Originality, like charity, begins at home. The people at WCAE have arranged to have a dog broadcast over the radio. We believe it is the first time.

Rin-Rin-Tin is the artist. He will give a few of his very best barks tonight at 7:40.

FIRE!

Nothing short of a conflagration tonight at Thompkins Corners. Everything's prearranged, so it should be big and fizzy. KDKA at 9:30.

WHOOPEE!

Patricia Strong goes to Hollywood to find out what it's all about. Instead she finds a husband. WJAS at 9.

Giuseppe de Luca, Metropolitan baritone, will sing "Farewell" during the Family Party at WCAE, 9:30 p. m.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS

Don't let those exclamation marks worry you if you're looking for something better. Tonight is the usual Monday night—crowded with good things.

KDKA will open up at 6:15 with the Carnegie Tech Girls' Glee Club. They will sing the Alma Mater, "Dear Old Tech" and other numbers. A fair program.

Indian songs and some of Cohan's hits will be included in the 7:01 concert by the Red Arrow Quartet. Another KDKA feature.

Lovers of the eccentric in dance music "shall have it" during the 8 o'clock concert at WCAE when the orchestra plays "Crazy Rhythm." Vaughn de Leath will sing "Chloe" and Franklyn Baur will sing "Sing Me to Sleep." Some slow and drowsy numbers, but a well balanced concert at that, with "In a Little Spanish Town" to brighten up things.

Pittsburghers were more than pleased with the first two Edison programs. Tonight's concert looks just as promising, offering favorite songs of George M. Cohan. KDKA at 9.

Prominent theatrical stars have been promised by Warner Brothers for the Vitaphone Jubilee at 9:30, WJAS.

The Davis Radio Jubilee, WCAE at 11 o'clock, should be good, with such headliners as Julius Tannem, Al Shean and Nina Gordani.

Aged Cardinal Vico Dies From Influenza

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 25.—Cardinal Vico, aged prefect of the Sacred Congregation of Cities, died early today. He became seriously ill with influenza about a week ago and his condition had been critical for days.

Antonio Cardinal Vico was born at Agugliana, in 1847. He was appointed papal nuncio to Madrid in 1907 and took a leading part in the clerical movement which during the next three years was agitating Spain. He was created a cardinal in November, 1911.

CHURCHES JOIN IN CATHEDRAL MEETINGS

Methodists, Baptists, Christians, Presbyterians and United Presbyterians mingled with Episcopalians in worship in Trinity Cathedral last night at the opening of the series of meetings for the Rev. Dr. E. Stanley Jones, missionary evangelist from India, under the direction of the Pittsburgh Interdenominational Committee. The cathedral was filled to the doors, and hundreds were turned away.

It was essentially a Mehodist Episcopal service with some Episcopalian form in which all the denominations joined preceding the evangelistic sermon by Dr. Jones. The great congregation enthusiastically sang favorite Methodist hymns following the Scriptural service conducted by the Rev. Percy G. Kammerer, dean of Trinity. The Rev. Alexander Mann, bishop, welcomed the visiting clergyman, and the introduction was made by the Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church, chairman of the Interdenominational committee. In the chancel also was the Rev. Dr. C. Wallace Petty, of the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Jones, preaching on the topic, "Is There a Way to Live?" discussed modern youth's effort at self-expression, defended it and declared that his own religion after 21 years in a non-Christian country bore the scars of combat but still stood firm. The services continue until Friday.

BUSH SHIFTS BUCS' PRACTICE HOURS

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Waiting for Waners. Many Fans Optimistic. Other Cases Give Hope. | Fouls May Mar Fight. O'Connell Shows Punch. Reds Count on Lucas.

AGREEMENT BY BROTHERS IS DENIED

THIS week holds the answer to the question as to how far the contract differences between the Pittsburgh baseball club and the Waner brothers is likely to be carried—whether the unsigned players will appear at the Paso Robles training camp with the other members of the second squad and try to reach an agreement there with Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss, who probably will be in authority in the absence of his father, or will refuse to report at the time fixed and thus become holdouts in the true sense of the word as it is defined in baseball law.

Paul Waner

One chance is that the Waners will board the Pirate train at Kansas City late tonight, as they were originally instructed to do, and join the group that left Pittsburgh for the California conditioning grounds last night. Another is that they will proceed to Paso Robles by a different route and reach camp on the deadline set by the club—next Friday. Both possibilities appear remote, present signs indicating a continued holdout on the part of at least one, if not both, of the brothers.

BASEBALL fans are an optimistic lot in the spring, however, and many Pirate followers will refuse to worry about the Waners missing any part of the training routine until Friday has gone by without their putting in an appearance on the coast. They are finding some ground for hope in that direction in the outcome of the cases of Mickey Cochrane and others.

Until Saturday, Cochrane and the owners of the Athletics seemingly were as far apart as the poles. Cochrane repeated that he would remain out of baseball until he got what he wanted, and Connie Mack issued this ultimatum: "I won't pay a nickel more to any one on the club than I have offered. We pay every penny in salary that we can give. It's up to the player whether he wants to play for that salary. This is my last say. If they want to play ball, all right. I need them all, but I'm paying the salaries, and I know what I can give. They don't know. The demands of some of them are so ridiculous that they are really funny."

YET word came Saturday night that Cochrane had signed his contract. Lefty O'Doul also fell into line with the Phillies, and several other big leaguers who had been classified as unusually stubborn holdouts also came to terms with their clubs.

Even Flint Rhem, cast-off Cardinal, who had declared he never would consent to pitch in the minors, affixed his signature to an agreement that made him a member of the Minneapolis team in the American Association.

So some fans will continue, for a few more days at least, to hold the view that the breach between the Waners and the Pirate owners may not be as hopeless as it looks.

Lloyd Waner

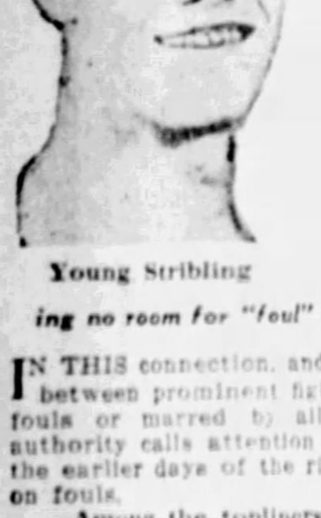
FRIENDS of the Waners, who say they are in a position to know something about what is going on, take exception to a report that there is an understanding between Paul and Lloyd. They deny that the brothers, in demanding increased salaries, entered into a mutual agreement whereby neither was to sign unless the other also was satisfied. One report published in New York said that the Waners had demanded a joint salary of $35,000. This is known to be without foundation. As showing that there is no "agreement" between the outfield stars, it is said by friends that whereas Lloyd has named the sum he wants, Paul has never mentioned any particular amount.

THERE can be no agreement, therefore, it is argued, as it would be possible for the club to make Lloyd sign by giving him the salary he asks and yet leave Paul still unsigned and on the outside, forced to make the best terms that he might find possible. For this reason, the opinion is held in some quarters that Lloyd may come to terms with the management and enter the fold before the club reaches any agreement with Paul.

Even if the Waners had made a "both-or-neither" agreement, that could not be classed as the first attempt to put over such a thing in the major leagues. Six Pittsburgh players were said to have formed such a combination for the 1902 season, while the American League was still making raids, but eventually two of them signed, one jumped and three were released.

IN 1903, Michael Joyce O'Neil and his brother, John, took a similar stand in their dealings with the St. Louis Nationals, and several other cases of like nature have been reported from time to time, in the big show as well as in the minors.

Even now, Catcher Hank DeBerry of the Brooklyn club is said to be delaying the signing of his contract until he is assured that the demands of Pitcher Dazzy Vance, for whom he always acts as catcher, have been granted.



Young Stribling

LOUIS MAGNOLIA, the New York official chosen to referee the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling fight at Miami Beach Wednesday night, may have some busy moments forcing the principals to battle cleanly and saving himself from being required to give a decision on a foul. Stribling often has been accused of landing low blows, and it is hardly a normal fight for Sharkey unless the sailor is claiming a foul at some stage of the proceedings. Between the two, Magnolia may have no easy time sending the fight through smoothly and leaving no room for "foul" arguments afterward.

IN THIS connection, and in view of the fact that many other bouts between prominent fighters in recent years have been decided on fouls or marred by allegations of the same, a veteran boxing authority calls attention to the different conditions that existed in the earlier days of the ring—the days when real fighters never won on fouls.

Among the topliners of the past who never won a fight in that manner, he names John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Jake Kilrain, Joe Goddard, Paddy Ryan, Peter Jackson, Jim Hall Gus Ruhlin, Tommy Burns, and others, added to such stars of the bare-knuckle era as Jem Mace, Tom Sayers, Daniel Mendoza, Tom Cribb, Tom Allen and Dan Donnelly. In the lighter classes there were the original Jack Dempsey, Stanley Ketchel, Billy Papke, Dan Creedon, Harry Greb, George Gardner, Kid Lavigne, Jack McAuliffe, Billy Plimer, Pedlar Palmer, Digger Stanley, Jimmy Barry and others.

OFFICIAL averages of the Central League for the season of 1928, just compiled, show that John O'Connell, the Verona boy now with the Pirates, who caught for Canton in that circuit, was one of the 48 players who batted .300 or better.

O'Connell made an average of .301 in 72 games, making 60

JIM STRONER — PIE TRAYNOR

Capt. Traynor, of the Pirates, and Jim Stroner, Wichita recruit, who will try to fill the great Pie's shoes at third base while Traynor moves to shortstop this season, go over the strategy of infield play aboard the train that carried them to their training camp at Paso Robles, Cal. Traynor is anxious to have his understudy perform in capable style and is getting him off to an early start.

BRAME TAUSCHER

Ervin Brame and Walter Tauscher, pitchers, are two of the tallest members of the Pirate corps. Ervin is 6 feet 2 inches tall and Tauscher is just a half-inch under that notch. First Baseman Earl Sheely is two inches taller than Brame.

DONIE CHANGES PIRATE DRILL TO AFTERNOON

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Feb. 25.—After observing weather conditions in Paso Robles during the past 24 hours, Manager Bush, of the Pirates, this morning announced that the pitchers and catchers, beginning today, would work out in the afternoon at 1:30 instead of in the morning.

When the Pirates landed here last Friday, Pilot Donie informed all hands that the daily session, pending the arrival of the infielders and outfielders, would take place each day beginning about 10 o'clock, but the chill zephyrs in the morning have induced him to switch his program.

BUCS GO HUNTING

On Saturday and yesterday the morning weather was cooler than in the afternoon, the brisk north winds softening each day after the lunch hour. So Bush, fearful that some of his sharpshooters or receivers would absorb serious colds, decided to wait for the warmer weather of the afternoon. Of course, all of his deductions are subject to change if there is a sudden turn for the better. So far this year the players have experienced colder weather than at any time in the six-year sojourn of the Freebooters in the resort town.

Accordingly, the pitchers and catchers are loitering around the hotel this morning. Some, however, have taken advantage of the idle time to engage in various stunts. The woods here abound in small game, and many of the players like to go out in quest of the denizens of the forests.

The workout of yesterday was a dandy, despite the wind. The boys went through some peppy paces regardless of the muscle soreness that showed up on top of the initial practice Saturday. Yesterday afternoon found the hotel well filled with athletes nursing aches and pains, but not one of the gathering had sufficient ailments to keep him off the ball field. Joe Devine, the only sick man in camp, had recovered to such an extent that he was able to watch the practice from the bench.

MARKS AT FIRST

Dr. William Marks is making up for his enforced idleness of one year ago. The Carnegie Tech physician came with the 1928 Pirates on the heels of an appendix operation. He was unable to limber up owing to his condition, but this year he is stronger and livelier than Paulino Uzcudun. The doctor plays first base in the practice sessions and will continue to do so unless some strong-armed infielder sinks a new rocket into his "tummy." It was feared he would lose his bridgework a few times since the squad landed.

Trainer Mike Chambers is one of the busiest boys in camp. The early workouts have sent strings of patients to Mike, who is giving fine satisfaction.

Chillysauce

Manager Bush spent 15 minutes yesterday in instructing Jim Stroner on the method of playing bad hopping balls that baffle practically every third sacker in the National League, excepting Pie Traynor and Fred Lindstrom.

Bush gave Chick Fraser the task of hitting the sort of drives needed, this trick requiring much skill in itself. Fraser endeavored to hit hot liners that skidded about 20 feet in front of the third baseman and which came up off the grass in a confusing manner. Jim was struck in the chest a number of times, but he kept at the task until he had partly mastered it.

Stroner has to use caution, owing to his recent operation for appendicities. The ordeal in the hospital took 10 pounds off his strong frame and it will be some time before he gets back to his normal weight. He left the hospital less than a month ago. The exertions of the past two days, however, have not resulted in any discomforts for the boy.

Traynor flew around the short field like Wagner in his heyday. Bad hops to Pie are just like ordinary grounders. Pie appears to be faster than ever on his feet and in the brief stay in camp he has spent much time in the short field.

A young girl reporter for a San Luis Obispo paper mixed social features with business to obtain interesting items about the Pirates. At a ball given in honor of the incoming Buccos, the attractive girl danced cleverly with some of the boys and then followed through the next day with some keen interviews.

Earl Sheely, new first baseman of the Buccos, will come in from his farm today to take part in his first Buccaneer workout. To date Dr. Marks has been filling in quite well. But Bill is likely to be laid up for repairs if he keeps on cutting didoes around the bag.

Jess Petty has worked quite a change in his physique since he landed. Only a few days ago, while performing at a theater in Pittsburgh, Jess had a flabby appearance. But Petty is one of the hardest workers in the advance squad. He likes to cut loose in order to get all through with the sore stuff as quickly as possible.

Southpaw Larry French is another mysterious holdout. The rookie from Portland has not written his bosses in three weeks. Reports on the coast have it that Larry's family is quite well-to-do and that he can afford to be a bit independent.

Pitcher Fred Fussell was still among the missing yesterday. Manager Bush may take disciplinary action against the tardy lefthander if he doesn't reach camp in the next day or two.

College basketball, on its last legs in this and other centers of collegiate culture, has a enviable record to look back upon for the present season. We've had enough excitement hereabouts this winter to do for a dozen years, what with Carnegie Tech winning two games, Pitt getting knocked off and the Green Bisons of Bethany romping along like nobody's business in the Conference and threatening to cop the title of the district.

The present week's program is the last full seven-day-one of the year. Beginning tonight, when the Dukes strike into the corn belt of Waynesburg for a Conference tussle with Frank Wolfe's Yellow Jackets, every collegiate five in the section will see action. Two very important games are on the card. More about them later.

Waynesburg annually awaits with pleasure (?) the invasion of the Duke basketballers. Regardless of what sort of a season the Jackets may be experiencing, if they can take at least one game from Duquesne, the campaign is written off as a success. Taking a flop out of the Dukes is like money in the bank to the folks of Waynesburg and I don't mean the bank that went on the rocks down there, either.

DUKES WON FIRST

Duquesne stopped the boys from Greene County with ease here in Pittsburgh two weeks ago. According to Hoyle, or who ever the patron swearer-by of basketball is, look out. Don't bet any of that dough you held out of the Sunday School collection plate on 'em.

Tomorrow night, Pitt and Tech are to wind up their annual three game series by playing out in the Stadium Pavilion. The contest will mark the last Pittsburgh appearance of both clubs for the season.

A second very important game of tomorrow tosses Bethany up against its final barrier to the Conference title. Geneva's Covenanter team, the outfit that looked like a million bucks three weeks ago, but is rated at a figure a few cents less today, hopes to erase the poor showing of the past two weeks by taking Bethany over the jumps tonight and by doing so, creating the possibility of an eventual three-way tie for the league leadership. Geneva may very well win tonight too, for the Covenanters are about due to click as they did the night they trimmed West Virginia.

W. VA.—PREXYS CLASH

West Virginia, incidentally, faces Wash-Jeff at Washington in a Big Four fame. The affair was originally scheduled for Wednesday, but moved forward a day at the behest of the Mountaineers.

Geneva has cancelled its game with St. Canisius which was to have been played tonight.

The favorites all came through with the well known bacon in Saturday night's games. West Virginia continued winning by taking Grove City at Grove City. Westminster

FIGHT REACHES GUESSING STAGE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The boys are guessing these days—guessing on the probable outcome of the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling bout, to be fought at Miami Beach, Fla., Wednesday night.

Any prediction on THAT one cannot be anything other than a guess. Both fighters are so erratic in their performances that they are about as dependable as a high-strung thoroughbred in a hoss race—they either run through the field or are left at the barrier.

Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion, who denies the canard that he never picked a winner in a boxing match, leans toward Stribling. He doesn't say out and out that Stribling will win, but he likes the Georgian's chances.

Leo P. Flynn, who seconded Jack Dempsey against Sharkey, says the Bostonian is a cinch. Doesn't see how he can lose if for no other reason than that Jack rates Stribling in the "bum" class and generally can wallop any foe for whom he holds contempt.

Frank Menke, veteran sports writer, who has been one of Dempsey's right-hand men in all of the preparation for the battle of Miami Beach, picks Stribling to win and looks for a knockout in six rounds if Sharkey mixes with the youth who has knocked palookas kicking in 113 battles—more than twice as many bouts as may be found in Sharkey's entire record. Menke is impressed by Stribling's right-hand punch to a point just back of or below the ear with which he has scored most of his knockouts. He believes it will spill Sharkey if it lands properly. Strib calls the wallop "Buckshot."

Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion, who has fought both men, likes Stribling to win. Michael's first meeting with Stribling, under K. K. K. auspices, in Georgia, lingers in memory as one of the epics of modern ring times. Later he fought Stribling again, under more favorable conditions, in New Jersey. In the fag end of his career, Mike gave Sharkey merry old L for 10 rounds in New York and then lost by a technical knockout when a blow drove one of his lips through a broken tooth and ruptured a blood vessel, forcing the referee to halt the battle. McTigue says Stribling is a lusty body walloper, and the belief exists that Sharkey can't take 'em in that part of his anatomy.

Jack Dempsey, the promoter, first was touting Stribling to win. Now he's stringing along with Sharkey, who almost knocked him out in the first round of their bout less than two years ago, after which the former champion came on to win by a disputed knockout in the seventh round. What Dempsey says can't be taken seriously, though, for he obviously is talking for the benefit of the gate. Tex Rickard, whose shoes he is trying to fill, used to swing back and forth that way.

The belated decision to broadcast the fight via radio looks like the working out of a plan that would have done credit to Tex. Remember how Tex used to unload oodles of his tickets on the speculators and then spread a scare about fake tickets and advise the customers to buy at the box office only? The fans would be afraid of getting spurious pasteboards, and the result would be that the specs would get stuck and on the day of the fight would be selling out at less than market prices.

When the question of broadcasting the Florida battle first came up, Bill Carey, working with Dempsey, indignantly declared no such thing would be done. It looked as if the thing would be a flop at the time, and Bill declared in accents wild that not for $50,000 would he permit the fight to be radioed.

"If this fight is going to be a bust, $50,000 will not save it," he said. Now the thing has gone over the top financially, and Bill has "changed his mind."

Applesauce. It probably was in the bag all along for the fight to be broadcast. But to let the fans know it with the tickets unsold would have been a fatal blunder. Bill evidently uses his head for other purposes than merely a perch for his bonnet.

Second Pirate Party Starts For Camp

The nucleus of the second squad of Pirates left last night for the training camp at Paso Robles, where the batterymen arrived last Friday. Four players — Earl (Sparky) Adams, second baseman; Carl Frey, outfield aspirant; Harry Riconda, new infielder, and Adam Comorosky, outfielder—were in the party.

Other infielders and outfielders will be picked up on the way. Bill Hinchman, veteran coach, was in charge.

The squad is expected to reach Paso Robles on Thursday.

PROFIO'S RISE IN RING IS RAPID

Dominick Profio, young welterweight boxer, of Cecil, Pa., who meets California Joe Gans, of Gary, Ind., in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport next Thursday night, has had one of the most phenomenal rises to ring fame of any of the Pittsburgh district boxers.

In less than a year from the time he began boxing, Dominick is a windup performer. He is only 20 years old.

Starting out as an amateur boxer at the Pittsburgh Lyceum, Dominick engaged in upwards of 25 medal bouts, most of which he won by knockouts. Less than six months ago, he turned professional, and since then he has had 16 bouts, of which he has won nine by the kayo route. Four of these have been main bouts. His only defeat to date was at the fists of Gans, and he will be seeking revenge when he tangles with the flashy Negro again this week. In this battle also he will be boxing for the first time under the management of James (Red) Mason. His former pilot, Reed Brown, from whom he was separated after knocking out Young Rudy, of Mason's string, less than two weeks ago, will pilot Gans against him, lending a "grudge" tint to the melee.

Profio's best fighting weight is 142 pounds. He has two brothers, Amedus, who attends Westminster College, and Victor. The former is older and the latter younger than Dominick.

ZIVIC BOUT OFF

Jack Zivic's bout with Sam Bruce, Negro welterweight, of Buffalo, at Buffalo next Saturday night, has been called off. Jack, however, has some other bouts in the making and is continuing in training. He passed up a chance to go to Florida to take in the Sharkey-Stribling bout this week in order to continue with his conditioning process following his layoff since last June.

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple, is at work on his preliminary card for the return battle between Jackie Rodgers and Johnny Dunn, scheduled for Friday night. He reports a good advance sale and looks for another capacity crowd.

Dan Bilick, featherweight, of Duquesne, was injured in falling out of the ring while training with Archie Bell in Stillman's gymnasium in New York and has had to cancel his bout with Ted Corr at Jersey City tonight.

Tommy Crawley, of the South Side, boxes Eddie Ruttman at Wheeling tonight. Other battles listed tonight include: Benny Bass vs. Davy Abad, St. Louis; Jackie Horner vs. Bucky Lawless, Buffalo; Vincent Sireci vs. Izy Grove, New York; Pete Nebo vs. Honey Boy Finnegan, Matty White vs. Vidal Gregorio, Rosy Stoy vs. Maurice Holtzer and Midget Fox vs. Jack Portney, Philadelphia; Tommy O'Brien vs. Gorilla Jones, Holyoke, Mass.; Billy Petrolle vs. Tod Smith, Sioux Falls, S. D., and King Tut vs. Babe Herman and Eddie O'Dowd vs. Johnny Ryan, 10 rounds each, Milwaukee.

Kid Chocolate, the Cuban featherweight sensation, defeated Chick Suggs, Negro veteran of New Bedford, Mass., in their 10-round bout in Havana, Cuba, Saturday night, for the so-called "Negro featherweight championship of the world." Tony Ascencio defeated Petey Mack in a 10-round bout in New York, with Black Bill defeating Freddie Lattanzio in the semi-final.

SEIFERT TO BOX WELLS

Sandy Seifert, North Side heavyweight, has been matched with Jack Wells, of Wellsburg, W. Va., in a 10-round bout at Steubenville, O., Tuesday night of next week. Sammy Paris, of the Hill, meets Petey Roberts, of Wheeling, in one of the six-round preliminaries. Martin Smith is the promoter.

Cuddy DeMarco has gone back to Philadelphia, where he will appear in one of the bouts at the Broadway Club, Wednesday night.

Emmett Rocco, Elwood City heavyweight, meets Al Friedman, of Boston, in a 10-round bout at popular prices in Cleveland, Friday night. Rosy Rosales boxes Cuban Bobby Brown, of Philadelphia, in the main preliminary of the all-heavyweight bill, which also will include Bob Moody, former Negro amateur star of Freeport, Pa.

MILLVALE TEAM VICTOR IN TOURNEY

The final rolling in the annual Southern Duckpin tournament, on the Southern Recreation alleys, Saturday night, developed a new leader in the five-men event in the Krapf team, of Millvale, which turned in a count of 2,623.

Saturday's rolling also developed the doubles champion in the team of L. Wandell and Hughes, of Homewood, which knocked down 1,115 pins. The singles crown remained on the brow of H. Kennedy, who rolled 644.

MIELES OPPOSE LAFAYETTES TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Miele-Franchinas will have the champion Duquesne Lafayettes as their attraction at Columbus Temple tonight in the only contest scheduled in the Allegheny County League.

While the County League race has been settled insofar as the title is concerned, the Miele-Franchinas are hopeful of improving their position and will be out tonight determined to score their first victory over the Duquesne passers.

FACE HARD GAMES

With their County League card all but completed, the Miele-Franchinas are turning their attention to an attractive schedule of independent games. Next Monday the Mieles will open a series with the crack Penn Five, of the West Penn League, at Columbus Temple. The next night they invade Forresters Hall to open a series with the Knickerbockers, first-half champions of the West Penn League. On March 11 the Mieles will meet the Knickers in a return game at Columbus Temple.

Another game with the Enoch Rauhs also is contemplated. It was agreed to stage the contest at Columbus Temple on Thursday, March 7, but the Rosenblums are meeting the Morry Big Five at the Market House that night, and the date may be changed to avoid a conflict.

DRIBBLES

The Buhl Club of Sharon closes a successful season this week with three hard games on the schedule. Buhl Club meets the Rauhs at Sharon tomorrow night, the Olson Nordics, of Coffeyville, Kan., at home Thursday, and the Butler Armcos in Butler Saturday night.

The Duquesne Lafayettes, County League champs, will meet the Cleveland Rosenblums in Sharon next Saturday night. The Lafayettes in the first game with the Rosies lost out by two points.

Pip Koehler, Cookie Cunningham and other noted professional stars will lead the crack Toledo Red Man quintet against the Duquesne Lafayettes at Steubenville next Wednesday night. The game has stirred up considerable interest in the Ohio city and a large crowd is expected to attend.

The Red McMahans and the Lou Gordon Juniors are on edge for the opening game of their series at Columbus Temple tomorrow night. The Gordons have reached the final round of the A. A. U. tournament as a result of defeating the Hoo-Doo Club last Saturday. They will meet the Flying Dutchmen for the championship.

The Conleys meet the McKeesport Alumni, while the Mangans oppose the Jeannette Felders in the two Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League games carded tonight. The first game is scheduled in McKeesport and the second in Jeannette.

Reigh Count to Make Debut Abroad April 6

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Sporting Life quotes the trainer of Reigh Count, American race horse, as saying the horse's first run on English turf will be in the Lingfield Handicap, April 6.

"A good deal," the trainer said, "depends upon the weather, but I hope to run him in the Lingfield. There is a possibility he may run in the Newbury race, but I think the Lingfield course will suit him better for a trial.

"He is wintering well and getting acclimated splendidly. He has had a healthy amount of exercise which has kept him all right. He will be galloped on Newmarket Heath as soon as the weather breaks in earnest."

The trainer declined to give an opinion on Reigh Count's chances until he had seen him at work and while declaring he was undoubtedly a good horse he deprecated the idea that he was "a wonder horse."

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Mrs. George W. Tyson, of Kansas City, the former Miriam Burns, once national women's golf champion, has retired from competitive golf. Mrs. Tyson's intentions not to enter golf tournaments in the future were expressed in a letter to Ray McCarthy, director of sports for the Florida east coast.

DENIES SUPPORT

RENO, Nev., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—George Wingfield, Nevada capitalist and named by Tom Kennedy, promoter of the Walker-Hudkins fight for Las Vegas, Nev., as one of the men upon whose backing he relied, denied here that he had or would advance any money to aid in staging the proposed championship bout in the Southern city.

VET TURFMAN DIES

GIANTS AWAIT ARRIVAL OF M'GRAW

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—The New York Giants, in training here, are looking forward with much interest to the arrival of Manager John J. McGraw, following the report that the club had been offered $4,000,000 for its holdings by the Madison Square Garden Corporation. McGraw is expected to arrive the first part of the week.

McGraw, with Charles A. Stoneham and Francis X. McQuade, is one of the principal Giant stockholders.

STARS ARRIVE ON SCENE

Among the players who arrived at the week-end to complete the training list are Infielders Andy Cohen, Andry Reese, Travis Jackson, Bill Terry, Freddie Lindstrom, C. R. Crawford and Herbert Thomas; Outfielders Fred Leach, Melvin Ott, Jimmy Welch, Tonny Kaufman and Charles Fullis.

The players rested yesterday. Manager Ray Schalk reported all hands in tip-top condition, except Pitcher Joe Genewich, who bumped his knee in a collision with Jack Cummings at first base in Saturday's game. He was not seriously injured, Schalk stated, and would be back in the workout today. Cummings, who was slightly injured Friday, when one of his fingers was slightly spiked, shows no signs of having met with an accident.

Pitcher John Scott, who carried a bandaged hand for several days upon his arrival with the first squad, has taken off the bandage with his hand as well as ever.

TIGERS AT PHOENIX

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Manager Stanley Harris and his Detroit Tigers arrived here yesterday and settled down for spring training at Riverside Park.

The players spent the Sabbath resting and will report to the ball park for first "limbering up" today. Harris, who began the trip from Detroit with five players, was joined by Coach George McBride and several players in St. Louis, and picked up another group headed by Chief Scout Jack Zellers in Dallas, Tex.

Leo Fitterer and Champ Alloway, with the Phoenix club last year and now the property of the Fort Worth (Tex.) club, joined the Tigers here, as did George Uhle, obtained from Cleveland this year.

Harry Heilman, slugging first baseman; Mervyn Shea, and Roy Johnson, $75,000 outfielder from the San Francisco Seals, are scheduled to arrive shortly.

CUB HURLERS IN SHAPE

AVALON, Catalina Islands, Cal., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Manager Joe McCarthy, pilot of the Chicago Cubs, said that the group of pitchers and catchers making up his first training group were "in condition." The players roamed this pleasure island hunting diversion with driver, rifle and road yesterday. Some of the early arrivals were chasing goats in the more rugged slopes of the island; others were playing over the semi-miniature golf course, and the rest tried their luck fishing in the surf.

COCHRANE OFF FOR CAMP

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Mickey Cochrane, star catcher of the Philadelphia Americans, who had been classed as a holdout, left here last night to join the Athletics at their spring training camp in Fort Myers, Fla.

Cochrane, declared the most valuable player in the American League, said his salary demands had been met, but declined to state what the demands were.

SCHANG STILL HOLDOUT

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Wallie Schang, veteran catcher, was a holdout as the St. Louis Browns' early squad left for spring training at West Palm Beach, Fla., last night. Business Manager Bill Friel had expected Schang to put in an appearance at the station, but the 38-year-old backstop wasn't aboard and Friel said he was unsigned.

Friel said Schang has had several conferences with L. C. McEvoy, Browns' vice president and had told McEvoy he would be on the train. Schang was said to be the only Brown holdout.

The Cardinals, under Billy Southworth, the fifth manager in as many seasons, send their first squad away tonight for Avon Park, Fla., with the return journey starting March 25. The Cardinals advance squad from St. Louis includes Southworth, his two coaches, Greasy Neale and Gabby Street, Pitchers Alexander and Mitchell.

Johnson, Yankee Pitcher, Married

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Climaxing a grammar school days romance, Henry Johnson, young pitcher for the New York Yankees, and Miss Virginia Lowe, of Bradenton, were married here Saturday night at the Methodist parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Harris, grand parents of the bride, announced the marriage today.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left yesterday for St. Petersburg where the Yankees have begun training for the 1929 season.

CECIL ELEVEN VICTOR OVER PRIMROSE

By TOM BIRKS.

Playing typical cup tie soccer on a heavy snow-bound field, the Cecil eleven won the playoff of the Panhandle section of the Chartiers Valley League, by defeating Primrose, 2 goals to 1, at Thoms Run yesterday.

To Hector Preaux goes the credit for the victory, for the Millers Run boy got two chances and smashed the ball into the net on both occasions. The only goal scored by Primrose came in the second half, Cox flashing the ball into the net.

Primrose lost that battle just as the Pittsburgh team did on Saturday, by trying the short passing game on a heavy field. On the other hand, Cecil played typical Millers Run football and used the big kick on every occasion.

Schollard was the means of Cecil scoring the initial goal. Making a good run he flashed the ball across the goalmouth. Truzzi tried to save, but the best he could do was to push the ball to H. Preaux, who touched the sphere into the net.

It was Truzzi's costly fumble that gave Cecil its second and winning goal. Of course, the water-soaked ball was hard to handle, but a center came across from the left wing, Truzzi seemed to be set to clear, but the ball slipped out of his grasp and H. Preaux scored again. This finished the scoring for the first half.

The second half found the game very fast. Cecil clung to its 2-goal margin until Cox got in his shot, and Wachter was well beaten. That finished the scoring, Cecil winning a good game on a heavy field. The lineup:

Cecil—2.		Primrose—1.
Wachter	G.	Truzzi
Schmidt	R. B.	Maltmev
Delmontage	L. B.	Romance
Schollard	R. H.	Viccolo
Guapini	C. H.	Beadling
Purvis	L. H.	Hinaut
J. Preux	O. R.	Bruce
Adams	I. R.	McCartney
C. Preux	C.	Lawton
Schollard	I. L.	Gonge
H. Preux	O. L.	Cox

Goal scores—H. Preux, Cox. Score at half time—2:0, Cecil. Referee—Virish.

Speed Stars to Test Creations This Week

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25.—(INS.)—Can man increase his land speed through bigger motors or better stream-lining?

This week two monster motors will be tuned for a test that will decide the question. The two theories will be watched, one against the other, at the international speed trials here March 1.

The record-holder triplex of J. M. White, of Philadelphia, who believes that through superpower his car will establish a new record, will be here for the preparatory tests.

Maj. H. O. D. Segrave's $70,000 Golden Arrow is poised here to combat the record of 207.55 miles an hour set by the triplex last April, with Ray Keech at the wheel.

Segraves estimated he will attain a speed of 240 miles an hour over the wave-lapped sands in his new speed creation. He will try out the Golden Arrow within the next day or so.

Waner Brothers Tales Fill Air At Camp

PASO ROBLES, Feb. 25.—The Waner boys, official holdouts after today, are a big subject of comment in the camp of the Pirates as well as on the local streets and in the homes of Paso Robleans.

Presumably Paul and Lloyd will be in the formal holdouts category when they fail to hook up with the second squad which left Pittsburgh last night. Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss, who is looking after the business end of the training jaunt, stated this morning that no word had been received.

Nobody seems to know the size of the pot of gold that stands between Paul and Lloyd and the Pittsburgh owners. All kinds of fantastic tales are in the air, but there is none who can give anything definite to the public except the parties of the first and second part and neither side wishes to speak on this matter.

Meantime, Donie Bush is going along in a business-like way. It would seem now that Donie will have to start off the whole squad with the little marvels out of uniform, but so far Bush has not showed much sign of worry over them. The concensus of opinion here is that both will be in before the Buccos break camp, but if Paul and Lloyd become determined on anything like the amounts already broadcast, they may be out of action for a long time yet.

McKechnie, Kendall To Be Feted Tonight

William (Bill) McKechnie, manager of the Rochester International League Club, and former skipper for the Pirates and Cardinals, and Pitcher Clarence (Lefty) Kendall, who goes South with the Columbus American Association Club this year, will be honor guests at church dinners tonight.

Dr. Flint's Bible Class will tender the McKechnie dinner in the Mifflin Avenue M. E. Church, Wilkinsburg, while the Kendall affair is to be held in the First U. P. Church, Unity.

Among the speakers at the McKechnie fete will be Sam Watters, Pirates' secretary; Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Burgess J. R. Langley, of Wilkinsburg. Lloyd C. Thomas will be toastmaster and Eddie Masten, the umpire, is numbered among the entertainers.

Estelle Taylor Denies Break With Dempsey

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(INS.)—Estelle Taylor today added her denial to that of Jack Dempsey, made a week ago to International News Service, that there had been a rift in the marital relations of the famous couple.

The film actress was in town today prior to leaving for Miami where she will attend the Sharkey-Stribling fight with her husband. "There is no truth in the reports that Jack and I are contemplating a divorce," she said. "The rumors probably resulted from the fact that my motion picture work kept me on the Coast, while Jack was busy in the East."

STAR MERMAIDS AT KEYSTONE A. C. TONIGHT

Pittsburgh tonight will be host to a troupe of the world's leading mermaids, in exhibition events in the pool of the new Keystone Athletic Club, downtown.

En route to the National A. A. U. women's championships at Chicago, beginning Wednesday, the New York team will stop off here for a program of competition.

Included among the visiting fair swimmers are Martha Norelius, queen of the feminine stars; Eleanor Holm, Lisa Lindstrom, Ethel McGary, Kathryn Brown and Catherine Ames.

Local stars will compete against the visitors and the Pitt and Carnegie Tech relay teams will clash in a special event.

Film Star's Brother Dies of Grid Injuries

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Funeral services will be held today at St. Agnes' Church for Joseph Samaniego, brother of Ramon Novarro, film star. Samaniego died Friday night of injuries received in a football game at the University of California. He was 24 years old.

W. & J. TRIP EAST IN '30 IS ARRANGED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 25.—Along with the winding up of the present floor campaign for Washington and Jefferson College athletes, Graduate Manager William G. Theurer is busily engaged arranging next year's card and announces that negotiations have been concluded for an Eastern trip of three contests.

This trip will be made in the early part of next February, with Lafayette being played on February 6 at Easton, Lehigh University February 7 at Bethlehem and Temple University in Philadelphia February 8.

Unless they show a complete reversal of form, the members of the Washington and Jefferson varsity are apparently due to suffer two more defeats this week with West Virginia's crack quintet to be played here tomorrow night and Bethany, which looks like the probable winner of the Tri-state Conference title, to be met at Wellsburg Thursday night. The Freshmen fives of West Virginia and W. & J. also will meet here tomorrow night.

CHICAGO SPARTAS WIN

hits for a total of 82 bases and scoring 25 runs in 199 times at bat. He made 10 doubles, five triples and one home run, contributed 11 sacrifice hits, stole six bases, drew 17 bases on balls and struck out 12 times. In fielding, he was credited with 136 putouts and 27 assists against 13 errors, an average of .926.

MANAGER JACK HENDRICKS, of the Cincinnati club, says the dopesters throughout the country are overlooking one item which, in his opinion, is going to give the Reds a better pennant chance this year than is generally being conceded to them. He refers to the prospect that the club will have the services of Pitcher Charles (Red) Lucas for the full season. Hendricks says that the Reds would have made a far better showing in 1928 but for the fact that Lucas was out for a long time on account of a fractured arm. Red pitched only 13 complete games and hurled in but 27 all told, winning 13 and losing 9, for a percentage of .591, and ranking eleventh in effectiveness with an average of 3.40 earned runs per nine innings. With Lucas able to pitch in his regular turn throughout the 1929 campaign, the Red pilot figures that this added asset alone will greatly improve Cincinnati's chances. Apart from his pitching ability, Lucas is quite a helpful factor with his bat. He is one of the best hitters among the major league pitchers. In his three years with the Reds he has batted .303, .313 and .315.

When a Basketball Game Is Not a Basketball Game

BRADFORD, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Here's one for the book. Playing in a seventh division game of the Pennsylvania high schools competition here Saturday night, Mt. Jewett was leading Johnsonburg by 33 to 17 with only one and one-half minutes to play. Referee Zuke Young called Johnsonburg for unnecessary roughness and Johnsonburg left the floor.

Mt. Jewett continued the game alone and in the 90 seconds scored 42 additional points, winning the game, 75 to 17. Swanson, Mt. Jewett star, scored 50 of his team's 75 points.

A ruling on the game will be asked.

By downing Thiel Saturday, the Yellow Jackets eased themselves into a tie for fourth place in the Conference with the Dukes, adding a bit of zest to tonight's fracas.

THE BLOCK PLAY

Teams throughout the section that are making use of block plays to any extent are finding it harder and harder to get by with these plays without having the official call 'em.

The block play, when it is worked right, is hard to detect and still harder to call. There need be no violent body contact, just a momentary slowing up or holding off of a man to permit a teammate to get set for a shot or to start a dribble. Professional teams use the play and get away with it in most cases, but it is entirely different when attempted by unskilled and inexperienced college players. The fouls are too evident.

Many district officials have commented recently on the clean basketball Pitt has been playing. Referees and umpires almost have to hunt for fouls on the Panthers. They make their share, of course, but their average is much lower than most other teams. They are too busy scoring.

Johnston Crowned Skating Champion

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Percy Johnston, of Detroit, became the new indoor ice skating champion here last night when he won the five-mile event in record-breaking time. It was the second time the record was beaten, Mel Johnston, of Minneapolis, lowering the time in a trial heat. Johnston's time was 16:25 2-5 against the former record of 17:06 3-5.

Allen Potts, of Brooklyn, whose title was taken by Johnston, finished second in points for the meet, with a total of 80 to the Detroit skater's 130.

The women's indoor title went to Miss Elsie Muller, of Brooklyn, who won every event she entered for a grand total of 120 points. Faith Schoen of Chicago, was runner-up with Rose Marie Brady of Detroit, third.

Griffith Gets Grid Job at Dickinson

CARLISLE, Pa., Feb. 25.—Dickinson's athletic committee has elected P. W. (Red) Griffith as football coach to succeed Bob Duffy. Griffith was graduated eight years ago from Pennsylvania State, where in 1920 he was generally acclaimed all-America star center.

He previously captained Bloomsburg Normal and successfully coached football, basketball and baseball at Marietta, there developing a number of strong teams. During the past two years he has been assistant line coach to Bezdek at Penn State. He will arrive here this week.

JACK KEEPS UP WORKOUTS AS STRIB HALTS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Despite somewhat disturbing reports circulated as to his physical condition, Young Stribling, the Georgia slasher, hung up his boxing gloves last night after a final workout, and settled down to comparative rest for his 10-round struggle with Jack Sharkey in Flamingo Park Wednesday night.

Stribling wound up his ring work under watchful eyes with three rounds of boxing devoted entirely to seeking out any weak spots that may be left in his armor. The lean Macon youth deliberately held his hands high to let Martin Burke poudn his body, give Paul Cavalier opportunities to work on his ribs and let Johnny Bell, a third sparring mate, take a few pot shots at his chin.

MYSTERY GLOVE

Although Stribling, to critical eyes, seemed to pass the test with a perfect average, persistent rumors about the temporary fight metropolis were circulated to the effect that W. L. has been under the secret care of a physician for a body ailment. During the workout, it also developed, the Southerner wore a special glove on his right hand and did little punching from that side.

Both Jack Dempsey and Pa Stribling scoffed at the reports, which went so far as to suggest significance in the fact that Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish Basque, will be on the ground for possible emergency use. Uzcudun, it was recalled, was named first alternate by Tex Rickard when the late promoter made original arrangements for the match, to safeguard against any accident keeping either point out of the ring. Uzcudun is expected here today. The Spaniard is in condition to fight, but indications are that his part in the proceedings will take place in a ringside seat and not inside the ropes.

SHARKEY KEEPS IT UP

Sharkey, on the other hand, is still working on the basis that practice makes perfect—and the more practice, the more perfect. The Boston Sailorman will work with his sparring partners for the last time today, easing off with two or three rounds of boxing. The final drill is due for tomorrow when Sharkey plans limbering up exercises and a long walk. There will be no more work of any kind for either on the day of the battle.

Sharkey went to his work with a vim and zest that has developed only in the past few days. Boston Jackie fought two stiff rounds with Johnny Grosso, who slugged in free-style fashion and gave Sharkey a splendid opportunity to speed up his left hand. Against Paul Hoffmann, the Silent Sailor worked a sharp right uppercut to the head. Sharkey seemed strong and in splendid condition. He scaled 190½ pounds after the drill, close to his best fighting "poundage," while Stribling weighed about 182.

The box office and social sides of the battle also came into fresh prominence, William F. Carey, who is helping Dempsey stage the fray, announced $283,909 is in the fight treasury with $25,000 worth of tickets out on consignment. Expenses of staging the fight he estimated at $256,000, assuring the Madison Square Garden Corporation a neat profit even without the late sales. Carey believes a gate of $500,000 will be a certainty.

Dearer Money Restricting Enterprise; Bulls Tamer?

By B. C. FORBES

THE acute uncertainty in the stock market and money market is not having a stimulating effect in the industrial and business world. Influential banking directors of important corporations, uneasy over conditions in Wall Street, are disposed to counsel delay in launching new enterprises.

Unless the tension be relieved in the near future, 1929 prospects, now excellent, may be more or less endangered.

BUILDING, next to agriculture, is described as the most basic and far-reaching of all our industries. When construction booms as it has boomed during recent years, a great many industries are either directly or indirectly benefited and employment is sustained. New construction has been one of the most potent factors in our prosperity.

It so happens, however, that building is among the first industries to be affected by dear money. The great bulk of the nation's building is conducted on borrowed capital, mostly long term obligations. We have been enjoying a period of cheap money. And unquestionably this has greatly encouraged construction work.

But due mainly to the inordinate absorption of money and credit by stock market speculation, the money market has undergone a transformation. Wall Street rates today are half as high again as they were 12 months ago, both for demand and time money. Commercial rates latterly have likewise been substantially raised. Also, the market for new bond issues has been injured by dearer money.

True, these conditions have brought about new plans for financing building to a greater extent through stock issues, some of the most powerful financial interests in New York have joined this movement. But the fact remains that building throughout the country is not done by stock issues, but mainly by bonds.

ALL this means that there is now less inducement than there was to undertake building projects. Moreover, dear money has a distinctly restrictive influence in many other directions.

THERE we have one potent reason, among many others, why it would be well for the country were the continuous expansion of borrowing for speculative purposes to be arrested.

What would be the alternative? What would the final upshot be if more and more money were to be drawn from every part of our country and from all foreign centers to fan speculation here, sending quotations higher and still higher. Were neither the Federal Reserve Board nor any other body to utter one word of warning, but were everybody to applaud and encourage the carrying of the stock boom to unlimited lengths, what then?

Every sensible person familiar with financial history knows the answer: The boom would burst with disastrous consequences. These consequences would be the more disastrous the more aggravated the boom had become.

WHAT is likely to happen? It may be significant that speculation has already distinctly decreased in volume. The daily turnover during the four stock exchange days of last week was one-third smaller than formerly.

That fact probably contained more significance than the fact that quotations, on the whole, moved in an upward direction. Doubtless a goodly part of the recovery was due to covering by bears who helped along the previous rather sharp decline.

The strongest bankers throughout the country are almost unanimous in desiring to have speculation and speculative borrowing quieted down. There are differences of opinion among them as to how far the reserve is called upon to "interfere" but they are prepared to use their influence on the side of conservatism. It is worth noting that bank loans to brokers last week were reduced $147,000,000, although the effect of this was somewhat offset by an increase in non-bank loans to brokers of $56,000,000.

GOSSIP has it that several of the richest stock market operators have begun to pull in their horns, although it is understood that their arch leader, W. C. Durant, is still boundlessly bullish.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—The cotton market was more active and higher today on covering and trade buying of near months. There appeared to be some commission house demand for later deliveries stimulated by favorable reports from the cotton goods market, continued talk of decreased fertilizer sales in the south and steadiness in Liverpool. Active months sold about 15 to 23 points net higher, with May advancing to approximately the 20½-cent level.

The market showed continued steadiness later in the morning. Offerings of March appeared to be very readily absorbed by spot cotton interests, while some commission house buying was reported in later months. May sold up to 20.23c and the new October to 19.69c. The general market showed net advances of 16 to 20 points at midday.

Stocks Turn Down — Local Quotations Firm

HIGHER MONEY TURNS STOCKS DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—Marking up of the call money rate from 6½ to 8 per cent turned the course of stock prices reactionary today after an opening outburst of strength. Early gains of 1 to 11 points were substantially cut down, or wiped out, and a long list of issues sank 1 to 5 points below last week's final quotations. Trading, which was fairly brisk in the early rally, turned dull on the decline.

Stiffening call money rates reflected the withdrawal of funds for month-end dividend and interest requirements, as well as the speculative credit restriction policy of the Federal Reserve banks. New stock financing is now being blamed in some quarters for the large gain in brokers' loans early this year, attention being called to the fact that prices of listed issues advanced last weke, when new financing was relatively light, while loans declined.

Publication of another series of unusually favorable 1928 earnings reports and a further advance of ¼ of a cent a pound in the price of domestic copper, were the chief business developments of the day. Formal announcement also was expected of the Guaranty Trust-National Bank of Commerce merger.

High priced shares were again the first to feel the effects of selling pressure. Radio, for instance, ran up 11 points and fell back 8. Crosley Radio lost all but 2 points of an early gain of 9¾. United States Steel forfeited 4 points of an early rise of 6%. General Electric and Electric Auto Lite lost all of their early gains of 5 points.

Case Threshing Machine broke 25½ points below its previous sale. American & Foreign Power dropped 13¾ points to 113 as against a high of 138¾ last week. Interboro Rapid Transit duplicated the high of the year at 57¾ and then slipped back to 51. Wright Aeronautical and Johns Manville sold 3 points under last week's final quotations and Chrysler, International Nickel, Advance Rumely and Murray Corporation yielded 2 points or more.

A few issues showed special strength. New peak prices for the year were registered by National Distillers, Collins & Aikman, Adams Express, Chile Copper and Peoples Gas, the extreme gains running from 3 to 6 points.

The line of least resistance in the late trading appeared to be downward in spite of strenuous efforts to force the rally under leadership of U. S. Steel, which again got up to around its best figure of the day on a large turnover. Missouri Pacific established a new high record when it touched 77¾ and Otis Elevator jumped 15 points. A number of speculative favorites continued to slip down a point or so. The closing tone was irregular. Sales approximated 3,450,000 shares.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Raw sugar was steady and unchanged early today with no sales reported and spots quoted at 3.74c, duty paid. Raw sugar futures market opened unchanged to 3 points higher on covering and buying of distant positions by houses with European and outside connections. The upturn was promoted by favorable showing of the London market over our holiday and reports that European buyers were showing more interest in Cuban raws. One hundred March notices were issued. These caused some liquidation of March, but offerings were promptly absorbed. The market continued steady throughout the remainder of the forenoon, with the list at midday about unchanged from opening levels.

Refined was unchanged at 4.90c for fine granulated, with fair inquiry reported.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP.)—The curb market turned reactionary today after buying orders accumulated over the three-day holiday were absorbed and most of the early gains were converted into losses. Call money renewed unchanged at 6½ per cent, and advanced before mid-day to 7 and then to 8 per cent.

Utilities led the decline. Electric Bond and Share slumping 6 points and the new stock 2 points. American Light and Traction and Southeastern Powere declined more than a point.

Ford Motor of Canada started with a 12-point advance, but this was soon wiped out in the later waves of selling. The taxi issues, however, retained their gains, Checker and Yellow of 3 points each.

Trading in the aviation section was stimulated by the non-stop flight of Haldeman to Cuba. Niles Bement Pond rose more than a point.

Mining stocks has only a fractional range.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

ALUMINUM CO. EVER BUILDING MARKETS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE march of invention is giving birth to new forms of competition. In the past most competition was between companies engaged in making the same products. In recent years different industries have been coming into greater competition for markets. This rivalry has always existed to some extent but it is constantly becoming more noticeable.

We find brass fighting for some of the markets held by steel. Steel is replacing wood. Oil is contributing to the troubles of the coal industry. Motor buses and now airplanes are making the railroads worry about declining short haul passenger traffic. Rayon is pushing some of the older fabrics into the background. Electric refrigeration is competing with ice.

IT IS strange that the steel industry has never made any concerted effort to find new markets as the producers of cement and brass have done. The industry has been content to let the consumers do its development work. With the exceptions of a few attempts here and there on the part of individual companies to find new markets for steel specialties, the industry has never tried to sell itself as a whole against wood, copper, aluminum, concrete or cast iron.

All of these products have certain fields of their own which cannot be touched, but between them there are hundreds of borderline uses which some of the industries are going after, while others are trusting to luck.

THE Aluminum Company of America, under the pressure of necessity, has probably done more original development work than the others. The fact that this one organization constitutes virtually the entire aluminum industry in this country has freed it from the problem of obtaining co-operation. But alumium started with no known uses at all. It has had to find every one of its markets and it is still finding them.

The company's engineers, by close co-operation with manufacturers, have not only made designs adapting aluminum to new uses, but they have made new aluminum alloys to fit almost every purpose.

Aluminum has been finding its way into railroad equipment in small quantities and its use for this purpose is likely to increase. One of the leading railroad systems of the country is now considering the construction of an all-aluminum passenger car for experimental purposes. The car is still in the drafting rooms so that few details about it are available. If it is actually constructed it will be watched with intense interest by all the railroads.

ONE road has estimated that it can afford to pay $1.50 for every pound in weight saved and still write off the increased investment in a very short time. The cost of hauling the tons of dead weight serving no good purpose in every railroad train for the entire life of the equipment, is no small item.

The aluminum company is building a mill which can roll beams large enough for the underframes of railroad cars and alloys have been made which will permit the use of aluminum for almost all of the parts of a car. It is unlikely that the railroad actually has hopes of putting all aluminum cars in actual service, but the experiment will show just what parts can or cannot be made from aluminum on a commercial basis.

ONE problem being met in the application of aluminum to railroad equipment is the fact that weight cannot be reduced beyond certain limits. Thus in a locomotive the drive shafts are about the only parts which can use aluminum to advantage. Even in cars enough weight is necessary to make the equipment hold to the rails at a high speed. The extent to which weight can be eliminated is one of the problems the engineers will have to solve in the present experiment.

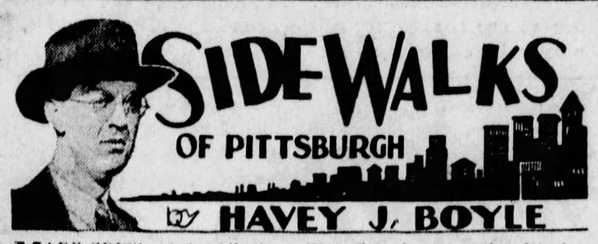
25,000 IN DISTRICT COMPETING IN FLAG CONTEST

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1929



MARY CRISS, of the Allegheny High School, was assigned to interview a newspaperman for an article in the Wah Hoo, organ of the Allegheny High School. She was accompanied by Professor Louis Hole, of that school, who knows all about chemistry.

Miss Criss was a little disillusioned about a newspaper office, she confessed. She had imagined, probably from having seen a movie, that a newspaper office was a place where men knit their brows amid an awful silence to write pieces for posterity. She found, of course, something entirely different.

* * *

Along with teaching students of Allegheny High, Professor Hole, a young man of erudition, is an omniverous reader of good books, specializing in works of a philosophical nature. As a result, he is one of the interesting men in town. He'll take either side of any argument and make his side plausible.

* * *

IN THE theatrical line you can get almost anything you want in the Hill district. An American movie house is not far removed from a colored playhouse, and two Yiddish theaters. The section is famed for its cosmopolitan aspect, for here is a little Bohemia. Jewish actors, Italian musicians, Polish patriots, painters, poets, and plain writers gather in various spots in the Hill district and over a modest meal and wine they re-make the world to suit their fancy.

* * *

In one of the Yiddish theaters there is a European touch in the prompter's box, visible on the stage. It looks something like a huge turtle. In the box sits a prompter who reads the lines to be picked up by the actor who speaks them aloud. The prompter long has disappeared from the American stage—he used to stand in the wings. But there's still one in Pittsburgh.

* * *

IT WAS one of the cold evenings recently when the downtown was thinning out. My friend stood at his newsstand post, waiting for his late customers. The air was raw enough to keep pedestrians scurrying for shelter. My friend, the newsboy, was happy in the scene that smacked a little of the desolate.

"I'm tickled to death to be able to do this to help out my family," he said. "Bar none, my wife is the best girl in the world. I can never do enough for her. When I was totally blind and unable to do anything but run up doctor bills my wife took care of me and worked hard to do it. Do you know what she did? Well, she worked every day, all day long in a department store, and then she'd come home, get the supper, and start out early to work at night in a doctor's office. She did that for several years and her only hope was that I'd get my sight back. The bills were pretty high and the progress slow, but she never complained. Now it's my turn to do something. It's pretty cold at times and the hours are pretty long, but I'd be a chump to complain. I'm tickled to death with the chance to make some money and take it home to my girl—best in town."

I recommend the story to the advanced gentlemen who would improvise new plans for the married state. I recommend it to the pessimists who write such articles as "Is Marriage A Failure." I recommend it to well-fed, healthy, yet discontented wives and husbands who worry about small setbacks. I heard the story and the desolate evening and the wintry air somehow turned warm and cheerful.

MANY CHANGES IN METRO CHARTER

How many of the sections of the Pittsburgh metropolitan district charter will stand unchanged when the document is presented to the Pennsylvania Legislature Tuesday, March 5, still is undecided.

Many alterations and amendments have been made to the 119 typewritten pages of the draft of the charter since it was prepared 10 days ago. Important sections must be rewritten, and day and night sessions of the commission are in prospect for the planners this week in preparation for the final draft.

At an executive meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon ways and means were discussed for getting the charter into final shape, but it was declared that many provisions were not yet agreed upon. There was no effort to disguise the magnitude of the job.

GIRLS STUDYING JEWEL CRAFT

Jewelry designing and craftsmanship is the latest pioneer activity of the Department of Fine Arts of the Carnegie Institute of Technology. As in other artistic endeavors of the institution, women are now playing an important role in this. To the galaxy of women artists, sculptors and architects being turned out by "Tech," the woman jeweler is the latest addition.

Students taking the normal art course who show a decided aptitude for designing and making jewelry, are given an opportunity to develop their craftsmanship in a regular two years' course. Prof. F. C. Clayter teaches them everything, from designing sundry pieces of jewelry to executing such masterpieces of jewelry as "Rue de la Paix" craftsmen are making. Wedding rings, bracelets, lavallieres, earlets, stick pins, broaches, silverware, letter openers, trays and a multitude of other articles are designed and created by the jewelry students. All articles are original creations and no copy work is accepted.

Several graduates are following their craft today either as jewelry designers and makers in shops, or as their own employers.

EAST END ASKS BOULEVARD

A new boulevard to begin at the Sharpsburg Bridge, Allegheny River, and connect with Stanton avenue, not far from North Negley avenue, is being urged by residents of East Liberty and that district.

It is argued that the approach to East Liberty from the Allegheny River is fraught with perils because of the heavy traffic and many curves in the Highland Park roads. The new boulevard, if constructed, would reach Stanton avenue through Heth's Run and would pour traffic into the heart of East Liberty either by way of Negley or Highland avenues.

Those approached on the subject have expressed themselves as being impressed and a movement is on foot to have the necessary petition circulated and signed.

Today's Flagism

The sixteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States was adopted on this date in 1913. The amendment reads: "The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states and without regard to any census or enumerations." The Constitution has by gradual changes and expansions kept apace with the new ideals and needs of the nation, much the same as Old Glory has expanded and gone forward in a fashion compatible with the new-day circumstances governing our nation's life.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.

All we seem to celebrate Washington's Birthday is so we can revive the argument as to "what he had to say about entaglements with Europe." Every speaker makes him say just what that speaker wants him to say. Coolidge says it was Jefferson that made the "wise-crack" about not messing with outsiders.

So it looks like added to all his other accomplishments, Washington was a diplomat. A diplomat is one that says something that is equally misunderstood by both sides, and never clear to either.

By the way, did you notice that everybody that spoke on the Father of Our Country's birthday was a Republican? You would think the Democrats were a step son.

Yours, WILL.

NEW WATER SUPPLY CUTS SOAP BILL IN BELLEVUE

Housewives of the North Boroughs will notice that their soap bills will be less from now on, according to representatives of the Pittsburgh Suburban Water Service Company, which supplies the district with water.

The water softening plant of the company at the head of Neville Island has been overhauled, all materials used in the process removed and cleaned to insure efficient operation.

A substance known as "zeolite, resembling sand, is used for removing the hard properties of the water, in the same manner as filtering. The continued use of the plant for three years had reduced its capacity for softening the water and the company ordered it rehabilitated in December.

The softening plant is said to be the largest in the world of its kind.

Brett Gets Hint of His Wife's Affair With Stuyvesant

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

In the Overland Limited on the way from New York to Reno, Dick Stuyvesant meets Felicia Brett. They are strongly attracted to each other. Because they are ashamed to be getting divorces, they lie to each other about their destinations and slip from the train at Reno as quietly as possible. Dick goes to the hotel, where he joins a bachelor friend, John Berkeley, nicknamed J. B. Felicia goes to friends, Dr and Mrs. Hodge. Dick sees her the next day lunching at the hotel with young Peggy Hodge and two college boys. Disillusioned, he flirts with Betty Rogers, a pretty little Southerner in Reno for "The Cure," and that night attends a wild party. The next evening he meets Felicia and the Hodges at Judge Cooper's. They explain their mutual deceptions and feel again the strong attraction that drew them together on the train. While driving Felicia home, Dick kisses her ardently and Felicia does not resist him. Ann Hodge warns her that too marked friendliness with Dick may imperil her chance of obtaining custody of her 6-year-old son. Felicia declares she will go back to New York and get the boy. The next day she gets a wire from her mother, Mrs. Henley-Martin, in New York, telling her that Alexander Brett, her elderly husband, is on his way to Reno. She gets an airplane and leaves at once for New York. An hour afterwards, Dick and J. B. hear that a plane has fallen 70 miles east of Reno. They rush to the spot in an automobile.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

DAWN was breaking when Dick, J. B., and the reporter drove back into Reno.

"And this was my night of rest!" moaned J. B., gloomily eying the eastern sky.

Dick grinned heartlessly. The "wrecked airship" the reporter had been sent to investigate had proved to be no more than a mail plane forced down by a clogged fuel line. Felicia was safe!

When he awakened, toward noon, J. B. was still sleeping the sleep of the innocent—perhaps undeserved—and Dick threw on a dressing down and ordered breakfast sent up to his room.

His first day without Felicia! Resolved to spend his time well while she was away, he opened the case of his portable typewriter and with a determined air attacked a pile of unanswered mail. The keys were clicking busily when a knock sounded on the door—probably the valet, for his suit.

"Come in," he called, without turning his head. "The gray suit on the chair—and there's a button off the vest."

"Really? I wish I'd brought my work-basket—I'd adore sewing it on for you!"

Dick jumped—and stood up to face a smiling young woman, with soft red hair and provocative, almond-shaped green eyes. She had closed the door behind her and stood, leaning against it rather languidly, a filmy green negligee fluttering over an even filmier orchid-tinted nightgown.

"I heard your typewriter," she explained, sweetly, "and I wondered if you'd lend me a sheet of carbon paper?"

Dick looked at her. He had seen her several times about the hotel, usually alone.

"Certainly," he said, stiffly, and added, "I always get mine by calling the desk."

"Do you really?" She came into the room, lifted a book from the table and opened it. "My name's Edith Feeley, by the way—Mrs. Feeley. If you weren't such an unsociable cuss, you'd know that I have the room next door!"

Dick held out the sheet of carbon paper, but she waved it away.

"I haven't gone yet!" Her green eyes traveled over him in amused insolence. "What pretty pajamas! Aren't you going to ask me to sit down?"

Dick ignored the suggestion. "Will one sheet be enough?" he asked, still offering the carbon.

Mrs. Feeley shrugged her shoulders. "You here getting a divorce?" she asked.

"That's my business," said Dick, and looked pointedly at the door.

"Dear me!" His visitor sighed. "What an unfriendly little boy you are! I saw you yesterday, driving up Virginia Street with a girl, and you were a lot more clubby! Gentlemen prefer blondes! Who is she, anyway?"

Of course, reflected Dick, he could telephone the desk and have this impertinent young female forcibly removed. Or he could pick her up and carry her to the hall. But he had no desire to touch her; his initial distaste for Mrs. Feeley was becoming downright dislike.

"Well—well! If it isn't a pajama party!" J. B. grinning, appeared in the bedroom door. "Do I intrude?"

Dick dropped the carbon paper on the table. "There it is—I'm going back to work," he said shortly.

J. B. approached Edith Feeley. "Anything I can do to be of service?" he asked. "I always fall for red-haired women!"

"And how!" laughed Mrs. Feeley. "Is your boy-friend a Sunday school secretary or something?"

"Don't bother about him," counseled J. B. "Let's go!"

The clumping of mules...., the soft padding of J. B.'s leather slippers....the door closed behind them.

Dick got up and walked disgustedly to the window. Lord! he was no moralist, yet the incident left a bad taste in his mouth. He lighted a cigaret, thoughts of work vanquished by thoughts of Reno.

This wasn't, he assured himself, the only Reno, this divorce colony with its tawdry sordidness. That courthouse, below in the sunlight, had other business than divorce—quarrels of sunbronzed ranchers, cattle and sheep men were settled there; bitter battles between miners, arbitrated. But there was an insidious quality in the city, a slackening of morals, a general letdown. J. B. and Edith Feeley were typical....

Dick's disgust was reflected and intensified a few evenings later in the mind of an elderly gentleman who stepped from the west-bound train. Dignified and arrogant, this gentleman surveyed the scene before him and took grim pleasure in the fact that his most fantastic opinions of Reno were confirmed.

The platform of the depot was as crowded as Times Square subway station during the morning rush hour. Noisy, vulgar people, wearing idiotic paper hats and armed with wooden rattles and tin horns, hurried back and forth beside the train, shouting and hooting with laughter. The Colonial Club—the club of Reno's divorce colonists—was assembled in all its glory.

Drunken voices were raised in songs of dubious benediction to speed on their way a honeymoon couple, the former Mrs. Mitty Fowler, of Wichita, Kas., and her fourth matrimonial partner, the soft-shoe artist, Jack Fielding—both graduate members, divorced and remarried the same day.

Brett struggled for a way through the crowd.

"Hello, handsome!" A flushed, over-warm young thing in a red evening dress ripped from one shoulder by a too-ardent admirer patted his cheek affectionately with a moist hand. Her breath was heavy with the fumes of many drinks.

The diplomat—without diplomacy—removed her hand as though it had been a spider.

"Well, what the heck?" The young woman looked at him angrily. Then she flung back her head and laughed loudly. "My mistake, grandpop!" she told him. "Go get a monkey-gland and c'mon back!"

Brett brushed her aside, white with fury. Adrienne Henley-Martin's taunt, "Look in a mirror, Alex!" came back in all its bitterness. Savagely, he plunged through the crowd, looking about for a porter.

There was no porter—someone else taken the only one Reno boasts—and there was no taxi. Finally installed in a dilapidated bus that looked like a discarded hearse, he was joggled to the hotel, where, still trembling with humiliation and rage, he seized the telephone and called the Hodge home.

To his inquiry for Mrs. Brett, Ann Hodge answered, "Mrs. Brett is out."

So Felicia was out, was she? In this city of drunkenness and revelry! Savagely, Alexander paced the room. At 2 o'clock, half mad with jealous suspicion, he telephoned again. If she wasn't at home by two in the morning, he would know what to think!

"Mrs. Brett has not returned.

"Are you sure?" he demanded. "I thought maybe she'd be back by now."

Ann Hodge, roused from her bed, and sleepy, was struck by a thought. "Who is this?" she asked. "Dick?"

Alexander Brett flung the telephone to the floor. So there was a man, was there? At five he threw himself, exhausted, on the bed and slept, but 8 o'clock found him out on the street, moving briskly toward the detective agency which the hotel manager had recommended. He'd find out about this man!

He believed in being thorough. In confidence the manager had given him the name of a very clever woman, "in case Mr. Brett should wish any service of an especially private nature."

He glanced at the slip of paper in his hand. Mrs. Edith Feeley—Room 342—Liberty Hotel. For an instant he hesitated. No, he would go to the Hodges' first and see for himself if Felicia had returned.. He hailed a cab and gave the address.

And as he sped down Virginia street toward the residential section, another cab, at the other end of town, started up the thoroughfare from the flying field.

"Aren't we nearly there, Mummy?" asked Alex Brett, Junior, as he snuggled his blond head against Felicia's shoulder.

When the infuriated Brett finds his wife, will he keep his promise not to do "anything harsh?" Read "Reno" tomorrow in this newspaper.

GANG GUNS A Novel Complete In Six Days by JOSEPH GOLLOMB

Reformer Cheats Gunmen's Hail of Lead in Pre-Election Clash

CHAPTER I.

PARKED well away from lights the taxi stood waiting across the street from the mouth of the alley, engine growling, meter flag down, the swarthy faced driver, his peaked cap pulled low, crouching over the wheel, ready.

In the dark interior of the cab three men, two seated, one kneeling, peered out through the slit between the drawn window curtain and the panel. Two sawed-off shotguns and a machine gun were slung over their shoulders. Their eyes were on the alley which led to the brightly lit rear exit of the auditorium.

Inside the alley, by the rear door of the Auditorium, stood a heavy glassed-in touring car. Its windows were closed, tight. Even the driver's compartment was heavily enclosed with glass, every panel shut. The chauffeur and four other men, broad-shouldered, silent, serious, stood beside it, watching that rear door of the Auditorium. Apparently all their attention was focused on that. But once a man shifted his position slightly and turned his eyes stealthily to the taxi barely visible in the shadow. Someone in the group muttered "Don't! They'll get on to us!"

From the vast Auditorium, packed to the rafters, came echoes of applause. The bursts of shouting and clapping were short and fierce, for the speaker's passion would not wait for the applause to die and the audience was too intent to want to miss a word.

The young man they were applauding, slim, athletic, with a boyish unruly mop of fair hair and blazing blue eyes, was flaying, lashing them and they were angry, but not at him. For in what Gene Channing was saying they heard the voice of their consciences as citizens of "The Big Burg." Absorbed in erecting skyscrapers, they had let corruption undermine city government; greedy for private fortunes, they had let their mayor and his powerful organization of professional criminals loot the public treasury. Now the world had a new nickname for "The Big Burg"—"Crooks Heaven."

"Next Tuesday," Gene Channing was saying, "you'll have to decide who is to have your city for the next four years. 'Gashface' Bruzzi's fleets of rum-running boats and motor trucks have been rushing repeaters here from New York, from Chicago, from Philadelphia and Detroit. His 24 'mobs' of gunmen will be on hand next Tuesday to vote their swarms of repeaters for Sam Sheedy as mayor again. What will you do, good citizens, on that day? Will you march with the Citizen's League and Dr. Bander and take your city back? Or will you stay away? You went to war for your country. Will you do as much for your city?"

This time the thunder of applause broke loose and stayed long. The meeting was over. Thousands crowded forward for a closer look at the young attorney. A month before he had been speaking on street corners to a few score or, at most, a few hundred persons. For he was no candidate for office; he refused all money help in his campaigning. And at first neither the Citizens League nor the criminal powers he assailed paid any attention to him.

Suddenly he began to back his statements with inside information. Almost every time he spoke he had something to reveal that made front page news. Someone on the inside of the administration or perhaps close to the rulers of the underwold was sending him ammunition. Not bullets but facts. Facts that had higher explosive powder than any "pineapple" Bruzzi's dynamite squad ever planted.

He no longer spoke from soapboxes. Thousands heard his speeches at a meeting; millions more heard them over special radio hookups and read them in the newspapers.

And second in interest only to what Gene Channing had to reveal, was the question—where did he get it? Who was his secret informant in the camp of the enemy?

That night at the auditorium meeting he had described in complete detail how "Gashface" Bruzzi was to distribute his "mobs" on election day. And the crowd that was milling about the platform had to be fought before they allowed the flying wedge of burly bodyguards to get him to the rear door of the Auditorium.

There the men about the touring car took over the charge of protecting the young crusader. Three different attempts had been made on his life since he had begun making his revelations, and the Citizen's League was taking no chances of losing him.

The police, whether through carelessness or because of orders from above, had allowed all the would-be assassins to escape. That was why the Citizen's League surrounded him with a bodyguard and assigned to his use a special constructed car.

Now as he came out, the door of the car was held open by the liveried chauffeur. Channing took the rear seat between two burly guards. Two others got in, one by the side of the chauffeur. The thick glass windows, all closed, showed only the tops of the heads of those in the rear, so low was the seat.

With a powerful purring the touring car slowly rolled toward the mouth of the alley and turned south.

The waiting taxicab gave it a quarter of a block start, then followed, imperceptibly gaining until Sherman boulevard was reached.

Suddenly the taxi spurted, veered until its mudguards almost scraped those of the touring car. And at that instant came the staccato roar of automatic firing, flashes stabbing the very windows of the touring car, tongues of fire which of themselves seemed enough to pierce the glass. Two sawed-off shotguns were pumping lead at the windows, the machine gun spat bullets at the body of the car.

Down went the heads of Channing and his guard. The chauffer, with a savage swirl of his wheel, slowed the heavy car straight into the path of the taxi, which dodged toward the sidewalk and ripped off a mudguard against a lamp post in a vain attempt to escape. Catching it full on the side, the powerful black car crunched it against the wall of a warehouse.

The spouting of gunfire stopped. From the splintered taxi a hand blundered out and a single shot went tattering down the street. The hand remained outside, fingers twitched once, then became still.

Four men sprang from the touring car, revolvers in hand, Channing with them. One of the guards thrust him rudely back.

"Stay back, Cam" you!"

The liveried chauffeur grabbed Channing and pulled him into the car. Revolvers thrust out, the others rushed for the wrecked taxi.

But of the four men in the wreckage two lay still, another was obviously dying; the fourth, conscious, was pinned by the twisted framework of the cab.

Now that the firing had ceased, faces peered cautiously from every window on the block. At a safe distance crowds were forming. Tardily two policemen came in an automobile with detectives clinging showily to the steps, their guns out.

And in the newspaper offices, 15 minutes later, city editors were clapping new "leads" to the accounts of the meeting in the Auditorium that night.

"HAIL OF LEAD FAILS TO KILL GENE CHANNING IN LATEST MURDER ATTEMPT." "FOUR OF BRUZZI'S 'MOB' CRUSHED IN MURDER TAXI BY CHANNING CAR." "BULLET-PROOF GLASS AND ARMORED AUTOMOBILE SAVES LIFE OF YOUNG CRUSADER."

In a three-story residence of ornate brick, "Gashface" Bruzzi was pacing the gaudy living room of his home, his black eyes with their glints of bloodstone, darting impatiently to the silent telephone on the table. In his early days he was a professional middleweight fighter and a vain man's pride of body helped him keep it still good-looking. His face, too, olive dark but squat-nosed, would have kept its morose good looks were it not for the gash of healed flesh that continued the line of his sensual mouth. No one called him "Gashface" in his hearing. He did not like the reminder, especially when women were around.

A young woman was watching him from the deep easy chair in which she was pretending to read a magazine. Her beauty had a professional look. The blondness and expert bobbing of her hair, the glowing blue of her sophisticated eyes, the lines of her full lips and her shapeliness were those of a woman of the stage. But in the flare of her nostrils, the broad cheek bones and the hungry curves of the mouth there was a greed for powerful emotion such as the mimic life of the stage could never satisfy.

Between her and Bruzzi was the silence of two people who had shared emotions so violent that mere speech seemed contemptible; and the moment was one of tense waiting.

Suddenly a buzzer sounded. "Gashface" flinched with the unexpectedness of it, but pressed a button in the wall. A sallow, loudly dressed, bald but young man hurried into the room. Bruzzi whirled on him.

"Why'nt you phone?" he snarled.

The newcomer jerked a thumb at the woman. "Wanna talk private," he said.

Bruzzi turned to her.

"Beat it, Molly!" he snapped.

The young woman looked levelly at him.

"So you've taken to keepin' secrets from me, eh?" she demanded. "I wanna hear some news, too."

Bruzzi did not trouble to answer, waiting only for his will to be carried out. Molly fought the look in his eyes for a few moments; then left the room.

Instantly Bruzzi demanded, "Did they smoke him?"

The other backed away from the thrust of Bruzzi's question.

"Smoke him, hell!" he whined. "Channing's car had bullet-proof glass and a steel body. How'd we know they'd spring that on us? And instead of smoking him the big boat smashed Gazzi's taxi against the wall and it's daisies for Gazzi, Pete and Ike. Gyp is still breathing in the Emergency Hospital—but that's about all!"

Bruzzi glared at him. Then slowly he advanced.

"Missed again, eh?" he asked softly, backing has man to the wall. "Fourth time, Sig!"

Sig held up a hand against the blow he expected. "Lay off me, Nick—lay off me, till I spill somethin'! I gotta earful to tell you."

Bruzzi's doubled right fist trembled with restraint.

"Better make it a good one!" he said, tightlipped.

"I'll say it's a good one!" Sig shot back at him. "And here goes! The same little birdie that's been spilling inside stuff about us to Channing has slipped him a tip on this smoking we tried! And he let the smoking party stage itself so he can make a speech about it. How do we know? Cause Channing says so. I got the tip hot from the cops who got it from City News. It's in the papers by now. So where am I to blame?"

Bruzzi glared at Sig Bolger, the craftiest of his subordinates.

"And all these weeks you ain't had the brains to find the leak and plug it!" Bruzzi asked with that slow patience his men dreaded.

"Give me a break, Nick!" Sig pleaded. "You know you yourself haven't the least idea who it's been. So why pick on me?" Then with a spurt of ratlike courage, "I at least have a hunch!"

Bruzzi regarded him steadily. "Oh, you have? Spill it!"

Sig regretted his haste. "You'll knock me cold, Nick, if I do. Give me a chance to dig up proofs first!"

"With election two days off? Spill it!"

"You won't sock me?"

"Talk!"

"Well, Nick," Sig kept a wary watch for the clenched fist and his voice dropped to a whisper. "Suppose—just suppose that Molly—" He nodded at the door through which the girl had left. "Suppose she got wise to the new jane you're rushing. Suppose, I say. Would Molly take it lying down? Would she say anything to you? Or would she hate your guts so you wouldn't know it—hate it on the quiet—but do you dirt? Maybe I'm wrong, Nick, and maybe I'm not. All I want is, give me a break, don't blame me for something that may come from under your very nose!"

Bruzzi eyed him long and venomously. Then he turned away and pondered. Finally he said:

"I'll give you a break, Sig. I'll fix up a little something that will tell me how much there is—or isn't—in your idea. If there's anything in it—well, I'll attend to it. If not—I'll attend to you! Beat it!"

Sig slid out of the door and Bruzzi remained alone. He brooded over his manicured nails; he stared unseeing at the carpet; he listened intently to an idea that whispered itself to him. Then going to the door he opened it and called in a friendly tone:

"Oh, Molly! Come on in and bring us a couple of highballs, like a nice baby! I need a little cheering up!"

CONGRESSMAN, LAWYER PRAISE HEARST CONTEST

Leading business men, executives of great corporations that have a vital interest in the problems involved, writers and professional folk in every realm of activity, continue to express their pronounced opinions on prohibition and to comment appreciatively on the search, by means of the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest, for a practical substitute for prohibition that will command the nation's respect and obedience.

W. J. L. Banham, of the Otis Elevator Company, who is president of the Board of Trade, New York, and active in civic affairs of the metropolis, was asked by the New York American for his views on the prohibition problem. His prompt reply, from the viewpoint of a practical business man, was:

"Moral virtue cannot be instilled by the aid of the policeman's club. Prohibition and temperance have similar meanings only in the theorist vocabulary. To the pragmatist, who judges things by the sole standard of 'does it work,' the two words are at great variance.

"There is but little quarrel on the subject of the harm to society, caused by the consumption of highly alcoholic products for beverage purposes, but there is a grave and growing doubt of the potency of the prohibition amendment in obtaining the desired results.

"Viewed in retrospect, it would seem that prohibition laws were passed without the slightest knowledge of human nature. The prohibition law was designed to regulate things and not people and right on that point it has fallen down.

"Today liquor is presumed to be scarce, hard to get, and expensive. There is the little edge of risk and daring. It has, therefore, been made the symbol of hospitality and in thousands of homes throughout the land, where formerly no liquor was kept, now there are well-stocked larders. Hospitable drinks are offered on frequent occasions.

"I do not propose to pass judgment on the effect of alcohol upon the flaming youth of today nor upon that class of people whom Judge Lindsay describes as the 'roaring forties.' Of the morals, their health and their financial standing I am not concerned, but it is an incontrovertible fact that many people are drinking quantities of hard liquor today who before prohibition law was enacted were temperate in the extreme.

"I believe that Mr. Hearst and his chain of newspapers are rendering a valuable service to society in the present effort to get us started again along the right track. It is so many millions of people that we are concerned with, and not so many gallons of alcohol. I congratulate Mr. Hearst and his publications upon this splendid movement."

Other opinions on the temperance contest and the state of the nation under prohibition follow:

Sol Bloom

Sol Bloom, representative to Congress from New York:

"Mr. Hearst's offer of a $25,000 prize for the best plan to achieve temperance is the best thing he has ever done. I cannot congratulate him too highly upon inaugurating this temperance prize contest. I have known Mr. Hearst for many years and never felt quite so enthusiastic about any of his plans as I do about this one.

"There is no question that the American public is ready to receive the truth about prohibition. All that is necessary now is to have the proper vehicle by which the truth may be told and retold to the people. I believe that Mr. Hearst intends to do this."

William C. De Mille

William C. De Mille, noted Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director and playwright, Los Angeles, Cal.:

"I think Mr. Hearst is doing a splendid thing in bringing the discussion of prohibition to a non-political and non-religious basis.

"No law can really be enforced which has the active opposition of 40 to 50 per cent of the people and is disregarded by a large portion of the remainder.

"It is well to realize that the Constitution of the United States would not be attacked by removing the Eighteenth Amendment any more than it was attacked by its adoption; and that the Volstead act is not a part of the Constitution itself but a law which has been demonstrated to be unworkable and which should be amended in such manner that a citizen could give it support without feeling himself to be attacking those fundamental principles of personal liberty which first caused the Constitution of the United States to be written."

John S. Wise, Jr.

John S. Wise, Jr., attorney, New York:

"Not 10 per cent of the people of this country are seriously interested in prohibition. Mr. Hearst is exactly right in declaring that prohibition disrupts temperance. I think his prize offer is a most excellent idea.

"Temperance cannot come through prohibition. Temperance is a matter of intelligence, not of constraint. Drinking is a matter of conviviality and you will never be able to do away with that spirit. There will be places for conviviality no matter how you may legislate.

"If there are not some sort of licensed places, there will be unlicensed speakeasies. And such places are potential forces for crime. They have no influence for good.

"The way to re-establish temperance is to get rid of hypocritical politicians who are easily influenced away from reflecting the minds of their constituents. Get in their places people who honestly understand humanity and the experiences by which humanity is governed."

Vina Delmar

Vina Delmar, Literary Guild Author:

"I am not in favor of prohibition and doubt that any sane person actually is in spite of what he or she may say for political or other reasons. How anyone could read last week's news, for instance, and believe that the Eighteenth Amendment has given us anything but the depths of criminal depravity is beyond me. The sanguinary massacre in Chicago was directly traceable to prohibition.

"Many greater and lesser crimes can be laid at its door. And have we gained anything by the amendment or the Volstead act? Is liquor any scarcer? The use of it is far more widespread, only the stuff consumed is now of an inferior grade and more expensive.

"Prohibition made America peevish. The law is flouted for the mere fun of flouting it. Most people have bought liquor at some time or other since July 1, 1918, and have derived a surreptitious satisfaction from knowing where to get it.

"Anybody who knows me, knows that I don't drink. I don't care for liquor of any description, so my objection to prohibition is a thoroughly impersonal thing. I merely regard it as a ridiculous, unjust imposition upon the nation. Some modification of the present law must be found to end crime and corruption and to satisfy citizens who feel that they have been unfairly deprived of moral and even legal rights.

"Mr. Hearst is deserving of great appreciation for his offer of $25,000 for a prize solution. More power to the temperance contest."

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close on April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

In Memoriam 1-B

Lois May Westlake.
Dearest daughter you have left us;
Left the home you loved so well;
But some day we hope to meet you
And together we shall dwell.
How we miss your little footsteps,
How we miss your baby face;
Baby dear we can't forget you
And no one can take your place.
Sadly missed by mother, father and family.

BUGS BAER Says

THE NEW ARCHITECTURE

THE new interior decoration seems to be of the Cagliostro period.

"Bugs" Baer

All buildings now are finished off in the modern style which seems to be a cross between astonished Renaissance and epileptic Gothic.

Homes are built without vestibules. Which may be due to a departure in design or to Billy Sunday's lectures.

The modernistic architecture looks as if the artist was endeavoring to perpetuate the beauty of a stork's legs while the bird was standing in a shallow pond of purple mush.

You walk into a New York parlor and say, "Why didn't the plasterer take down the scaffolding?"

The owner says, "That ain't the scaffolding. That's the modernistic wainscoting."

Which may be the key to the decorating mystery. The old-fashioned painter and paperhanger used to clean up the room after they had finished work.

Now, they leave grease spots all over, wallpaper stuck to the floor and lumber in the hall.

If a pot of red paint spills on the rug, the painter charges you 50 more dollars for spontaneous improvements.

Ever since some great man said that architecture was frozen music, all the decorators are trying to be Esimos.

The most startling change of all is in bathrooms. That old zinc-lined packing box may not have been beautiful. But it was comfortable.

It looked like the side-car on a runaway motorcycle but it was made deep enough to button up around the neck.

Now, the tubs are made out of black marble with green and gold trimmings. The floor is inlaid mosaic of glossy tiles and the walls are of international porcelain designed in accordance with the beautiful stream lines of the skunk cabbage.

There are tiles all over. In the middle of your plunge you look at all the tiles and think, "My goshness, am I taking a bath in a subway platform?"

For some reason, not elucidated in the Spanish bungalow blue-prints, the deep-dish tub has been discarded in favor of a tub that has all the sincerity and depth of a picnic pieplate.

The only advantage we can see in the shallow tub is that you don't have to reach so far for the soap.

Well, we are living in a mechanical age of improvements. Probably, around 1987, there won't be any bathtubs.

On Saturday night, we will merely lubricate ourselves with pocket oil cans.

Vote Machine, Not Honor, Paramount, Harris Says

State Senator Frank J. Harris, in taking the stand that enactment of enabling legislation to make effective the voting machine amendment to the state constitution is paramount in importance to the question of whom should have the honor of sponsoring such legislation, shows commendable sense.

In agreeing to withdraw his own bill for voting machines in favor of the Davis bill on the same subject, if it be indicated that the latter is superior to his own, or working for a substitute bill that would combine the best provisions of each, he shows a disposition for teamwork that also is commendable.

As Mr. Harris points out, the big thing is that the Legislature provide effective means of making a voting machine of approved quality available to the voter.

As far as the honor is concerned, friends of Mr. Harris will contend that it rightfully belongs to him, inasmuch as it was his brother and predecessor in the office he holds, the late State Senator John P. Harris, who introduced the bill providing for the constitutional amendment and because it was the present Senator Harris who assumed the responsibility of carrying the matter through required legislative procedure.

State Senator Albert Davis, of Lackawanna County, it is said, bases his claim for recognition on the fact that he has advocated voting machines for a number of years. He also had fathered a bill to that end that was adopted by the Senate and rejected by the House.

Mr. Harris gives evidence of a praiseworthy spirit in the matter by his statement that he will work for any effective bill that will give the people the kind of a voting machine that will assure honesty in elections and that will stand the test of constitutionality. He properly assumes that is what the people want. We support him in that belief.

Need for More Gas Tax Said to Be Artificial

Possibility of adding materially to the state highway system as a reason for gouging automobile owners with a four-cent gasoline tax is intimated to be "artificially" creating an excuse for the tax.

"The issues involved must not be clouded by any fanciful idea of adding materially to the state highway system," asserted J. D. S. Truxall, of the legal service department of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, addressing members of the Henry George Club. "The necessity cannot be artificially justified to justify the proposed increase."

He based his contention on the supposition that any greatly increased burden on the highway department could not be assumed and completed in any one year. He stated that reports from the offices of the state treasurer and auditor general prove that any gas tax increase is unnecessary to the continuance of the present highway program.

If the politicians succeed in putting this extra cent on gasoline, which already is three cents instead of two, because of the imposing of an "emergency" charge of one cent, supposed to expire this year, they will be asking for five cents at the next session.

The people are getting very tired of the kind of legislators who know no song but "Tax, Tax, Tax."

Coolidge Should Name Successor to Stimson

If the President-elect is well advised he will request President Coolidge to nominate to the Senate before he leaves the White House Col. Stimson's successor as Governor General of the Philippines.

Mr. Hoover is calling Col. Stimson home for service in the new cabinet—presumably as Secretary of State.

This conscription deprives the Philippines of the man whom President Coolidge drafted to carry forward the great work in the Philippines that is indissolubly linked with the name and fame of Leonard Wood.

Under the circumstances it would not only be an act of grace, but the part of wisdom for Mr. Hoover to compensate the Philippines as best he can for their loss by asking President Coolidge to name Col. Stimson's successor.

Here is an opportunity for Mr. Hoover to demonstrate to the whole world that in the administration of the Philippines the government of the United States is loyal to its trust. And that politics plays no part in the appointment of the Governor General of those islands.

The Senate will promptly confirm whomever President Coolidge nominates to succeed Col. Stimson and our incoming President will be spared the necessity of turning down those greedy politicians that have already begun to press the candidacies of their favorites for this great office which ought never to be filled by or for politicians.

In finding a worthy successor to Governor General Stimson President Coolidge would have no supporters to reward or console. He would be free to nominate for Governor General the man best fitted to discharge its difficult and delicate duties, regardless of every other consideration.

Surely our incoming President will not forego the assistance that the outgoing President is so free and so qualified to give. We congratulate Mr. Hoover on his opportunity. We hope and believe he will be quick to take advantage of it.

IT'S going to be quite a party, and your Uncle Sam is ready. When it comes to painting he is a good UNION man. Incidentally he is head of the best union that exists today.

Your old Uncle is deeply interested in young Herbert Hoover, now going to work for him. It is long since Uncle Sam had a professional engineer at the head of his Government; he hasn't had one in fact since George Washington retired, saying "Two terms are enough."

All of Uncle Sam's nephews and nieces are interested, as he is, in the new engineer, soon to take charge of the Government train. Plenty of opportunity for him, unlimited hope in the minds of the people.

Success!

ARCHIBALD could scarcely be described as brilliant, and try as he might he could not find a situation. After the first interview, prospective employers always turned him down.

The month expired, and Archibald asked for a rise."

"Vell, vat is your present pay?" asked his employer.

"Nothing, sir," said Archibald.

Lesser of Two Evils

MRS. UPTODATE paced the dining room with a very worried look on her face, and eventually her husband was moved to ask what was the matter.

Down went the boots Uptodate was trying to repair.

"Oh, and now you'll want me to buy you another new one, I suppose?" he said darkly.

"Well, dear," returned his wife sweetly, "that would be cheaper than moving, wouldn't it?"

Strong Language

THERE was the sound of a door being closed violently, and a young man came out of the study somewhat sheepishly.

"What did father say?" asked the fair young thing who was sitting in an armchair by the fire.

Her suitor tried to smile.

"Well—er—really, Phyllis, it was—er—rather—er—"

"Oh, leave out all the adjectives, Percy. I don't want to hear that part of it."

"In that case," remarked the young man more cheerfully, "in that case, there's nothing to tell."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

YOU know, most men have got the idea that their beard is awful tough. Well, that's the reason why there is so much talk about razors and razor blades. Probably a case knife would take most anybody's whiskers off in a pinch, but the customers are demanding better and better razors all the time, and getting 'em.

Well, there was a woman that was talking about all this to a neighbor woman. She says, "Why, my husband imagines that his beard is so tough his razor won't cut it off half the time. I know he's cuckoo, but I don't dare say anything about it, for fear he'd get mad. Why I use his razor to trim the whisk broom and everything like that around the house, and it works all right. I wonder if he thinks his whiskers are tougher than the whisk broom? And still, the very next day after I had got first-class satisfaction out of his razor in trimming the ivy on the back porch, he complained that his beard was too tough for that razor. Ain't men funny?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WALTER VOGDES has written a remarkable book. It is called, "A Great Man."

At first you think it is going to be just another story of An American Success. If you're a bit fed up on American Success you yawn-lift a bored eyebrow—

Then presently it dawns upon you that you are reading the truth—the quiet, but completely devastating truth about Big Butter'n Egg Success, and you begin to tingle. What is this person Vogdes about to say in that gentle, almost drawly manner? You walk gingerly, expecting bombs.

There are no bombs. But there is something infinitly more disintegrating than dynamite. There is Success—that awful Juggernaut—rolling ruthlessly across a man's life, flattening him into a greasy travesty of the thing he might have been.

He is a superb figure, this young giant, David Frazer, who comes sailing in through the Golden Gate to seek his fortune in the '49 gold rush. He had planned to go to the mines but found opportunity closer at hand in the money-mad boom town that is now San Francisco. He becomes a trader, stepping into his new vocation with all that cool, tenacious deliberation so sternly advocated by our best Success Technicians.

He has nothing to sell at first but his energy and shrewdness, but he makes 200 per cent on the deal. He barters and bargains in flour and wine, lumber and boots, oranges and tobacco. He makes money hand over fist in the most approved American manner. From the first page to the last he makes money and as he disappears, "a dark speck in the shimmering distance," he is still hard at it.

It is all very exciting. You are consumed with envy at first. You curse your luck because you couldn't have been in on a good thing like that. But slowly it begins to dawn on you that David Frazer is bartering with more than flour and wine and boots—he is bartering with himself. He is trading in the hot, sweet flower of his youth—the gypsy joy of adventure—his love of natural beauty—his awe of God—his tolerance and tenderness for his fellowmen. Little by little, they slip through his fingers as the money slips in—

But David does not know they are slipping away. With each success, he grows more complacent and confident—more satisfied with his shrewdness and common sense. Nor does he become unpleasant to other men in his evolution. He is respected and admired—his advice is sought and followed.

He is so much the Model Young Man that you have an uneasy feeling that you MUST have seen him around some hotel lobby in one of those Get-Together Lunches. Which you have. Hundreds of him.

And his lovely lady, Emily Matthews, you have seen her, too, with her magnificent American body and her passionately demanding American spirit. She, too, is on the make. She wants. She wants admiration. She wants excitement. She wants love. And, of course, the necessary man, or men, who will supply her with these things. Presently, you surmise, she will also want to possess children and houses and well protected bonds and plenty of life insurance. All of which she will get, for she always gets what she wants. Yet, mind you, there is nothing grim or grabby in her greed. She is direct as a child—merry, alluring, a happy hearty female of the Go-Getter clan. But with all her getting she misses much. She never grasps those subtler adventures of the spirit, those dreams and rebellions and strange, lonely pacts with pain which flow beneath the husk of life. That gleaming, negotiable husk was enough for her and, like David, she never knew what she missed. Perhaps many will envy her.

Some surely will envy her that love which might have changed the whole tenor of her life—might even have given her the priceless boon of poverty and suffering if she had followed it through. But though she gave and took as joyously as a bacchante, she let love slip away forever through the fog.

Success—there you have it. The story of a Go-Getter who got—what? What he wanted. God sometimes gives grim answers to our prayers.

POWER OF PICTURES

By Garrett P. Serviss

I HAVE lately received a number of letters from school girls asking me to send them promptly a dozen or more pictures illustrating science. One says, persuasively, "I am requested to have the pictures by Thursday. The more pictures I have the higher mark I get. When my sister used to go to high school she cut out your articles every night, just like I am doing."

Of course, I should be delighted to furnish the pictures if I had the leisure to make them, although I should suspect that my doing so would be regarded by the girls' teachers as surreptitious aid in preparing for examination. However, that would not deter me, for I am sure the girls would have to study the pictures in order to understand them, and thus I might take the place of a text-book.

Some of the best pictures ever made are simple diagrams. A diagram is thought made visible. It is a photograph of what is floating in the mind, not to be clearly described with words. Most of the pictures used to illustrate science must be diagrams, because they deal with abstract ideas. A cow is a concrete object, not an abstract idea, and to picture a cow you simply make a likeness of her. But the motion of the moon around the earth is an abstract idea, and to picture it you must use a diagram.

I am not sure but that the modern tendency to use algebraic to the exclusion of geometric methods in teaching science is a serious mistake. Algebraic mathematics is pure abstraction. Geometry and its outgrowth, graphic analysis, use the picture method. There is, of course, a limit beyond which the geometrical method can not go, but for the purposes of ordinary education it is more efficient than the other.

Put everything you can before the eyes; they are the great judges in the court of the mind. "Seeing is believing," and that excellent adage means exactly what it says; it refers to external vision, not to mere floating and more or less indistinct phantasms in the mind.

This calling upon pupils in science to furnish pictures is excellent. It is a powerful lever in education. When one can make a picture illustrating his thought he clarifies the latter, and at the same time makes the subject with which it deals doubly interesting to himself. The elements of drawing should be taught in every common school, as early as possible. I have often regretted that it was not a prescribed subject when I was a schoolboy. It is as important as writing. Almost every child wants to draw pictures.

The educational quality of pictures needs to be more developed. Far too many are trivial, farcical, or worse. Some are more obscure than the thought—if there be a thought—this is supposed to be behind them. They abase the noblest and potentially the most useful of the fine arts. In place of this riff-raff there should be a greater abundance of pictures presenting a stimulating likeness of the world, of science and of human nature in their best aspects.

Pictures were the very first manifestations of mental development exhibited on the walls of gloomy prehistoric caverns, and the evolutionary power that is in them has not been exhausted by all the successive civilizations through which mankind has lifted itself ever nearer to the ideal plane that it may sometime reach.

Bible Passages

Star of Jacob

(Numbers 24; 10-19.)

AND Balak's anger was kindled against Balaam, and he smote his hands together: and Balak said unto Balaam, I called thee to curse mine enemies, and, behold, thou hast altogether blessed them these three times.

Therefore now flee thou to thy place: I thought to promote thee unto great honour; but, lo, the Lord hath kept thee back from honour.

And Balaam said unto Balak, Spake I not also to thy messengers which thou sentest unto me, saying,

If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the Lord, to do either good or bad of mine own mind; but what the Lord saith, that will I speak?

And now, behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and I will advertise thee what this people shall do to thy people in the latter days.

And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes are open hath said:

He hath said, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the most High, which saw the vision of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

I shall see him, but not now: I shall behold him, but not nigh: there shall come a Star out of Jacob, and a Sceptre shall rise out of Israel, and shall smite the corners of Moab, and destroy all the children of Sheth.

And Edom shall be a possession, Seir also shall be a possession for his enemies; and Israel shall do valiantly.

Out of Jacob shall come he that shall have dominion, and shall destroy him that remaineth of the city.

The Rhyming Optimist

WHIRLING,
Twirling,
Over the stage she goes,
Lightly as bees
Drift on the breeze,
Seeking the crimson rose.

Leaping,
Keeping
Time to the music's flow,
Thus flame lifts,
Thus a leaf drifts,
Thus does a cloud-ship go.

Dancing,
Prancing
Still to the music's beat;
Snowflakes fall so,
Lighter than snow
Patter the dancer's feet.

Dreaming,
Seeming
One with the shadows there,
Then floating on . . .
Ah! She has gone,
Drifting away on air!

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Awake betimes and decided to chuck labor for the day. So to see Ray Long, Jr., who is becoming a stalwart lad and played for an hour or so with his toys, and great fun, too, which likely means something Freudian.

Lunched with my wife, who seemed as fair as any in the room and quite proud. Came Mrs. Alvardo to the table and presented Claire Windsor, of the cinemas, also a comely lass, then to see Aubrey Eads, home from Europe, and then walked on Riverside drive

In the evening to the St. Regis to dine with Grace and Ed Nolan, of Los Angeles, and to see Earl Carroll's beautiful operetta "Fioretta," afterward to the Midnight Frolic and as pleasant an evening as ever I had in my life, there being no couple with whom I would rather be. To bed.

A famous courtesan who achieved oodles of front-page headlines swept into a theater lobby gleaming with diamonds and other jewels. The effect was that of a Cartier window having an epileptic fit. A Broadway philosopher observed: "There isn't a thing in the world she needs except a little happiness."

There have been copious crocodile tears in the Tenderloin because a fabled straight-shooting gambler "welched" in his heaviest loss. There is the legend of a type of gambler who never "welches." The epithet is the most despised in that double-crossing world, yet there is proof in every great crisis, the so-called square gambler does that very thing.

The annual hunt meet at Milbrook in Dutchess County attracts the top rung of the Social Register. It is a sport for only the extremely rich. One must have many broad acres, elegant stables and packs of hounds costing from $300 to $900 each.

There is a hunt meet lingo known only to the initiated. It is, for instance, a faux pas to refer to a fox's tail as a tail. It is a "brush." Nor are the red-coated hunters called "red coats" as they so frequently are in the press. They are "pink coats."

When the fox is caught that is "blooding the fox." But the cutest of all is when the fox is spied in the brush. The cry then is "Tally ho!" Doesn't that make your blood curdle? And off they gallop—van tippy, van tippy, a hunting we will go! Afterward comes the hunt breakfast.

This is usually given by the master of hounds, who is the final word of eclat. The breakfast is around 11 a. m. and hunters come in costume for the spread al fresco. It is a party, and what I mean is a party. Some hounds run until they fall and have to be carted home.

The one-galluused hunter with his single-barreled shotgun at a modern hunt would look as foolish as some nit wit crying "Swee Cap!" in a cigaret test. Such hunts often cost a hundred thousand or so.

The modern huntsman is "dressed to kill"—Whoops! the way I said it!—and his costume is acquired at an expense of more than $500. Sir Walter Scott intoned witheringly in his day against some sporty Nimrod with, "He comes in foreign trashery of tinkling chain and spur; a walking haberdashery of leathers, lace and fur." He should have beheld the huntsmen today. Stuffed and placed in a Fifth avenue window, they would tie another knot in Mr. Whalen's lovely traffic.

There is a story of a hunter informing his wife he was invited to one of the private preserves for grouse shooting. He packed his hunting things, but after departing his wife discovered his evening clothes, even to silk hat, missing. She went "gunning" on Broadway and, as expected, found him philandering with a bright blonde at a ringside table. Passing him with her escort, she inquired coldly: "How's the grouse, louse?"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU are determined to take some exercise.

In summer you enjoy some line of exercise that gives you what you need.

But cold weather changes the form of exercise and so you go to a gym or you buy some exercising apparatus.

You make a regular job of it.

You over-exercise muscles which have been in disuse, perhaps.

You become tired, lame and cross about it, and decide that exercise is not a good thing for you.

You decide to skip a few days before you try again.

You keep skipping and by spring you have a lot of flabby muscles.

Start lightly and increase gradually.

Never go to the point where you are tired.

But under all circumstances it should be taken up gradually to be of real and lasting value and benefit.
